Ball Surprise Choice As UN Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson disclosed Thursday the long-anticipated resignation of Arthur J. Goldberg as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and announced a surprise successor: George W. Ball, former undersecretary of state.

Goldberg, 59, a former labor lawyer who has held high federal posts since the first day of the John Kennedy administration, had made no secret recently of his desire to return to private life.

Advance speculation about a successor did not mention Ball, 58, who resigned as No. 2 man in the state department nearly two years ago to return to law practice.

When Ball left government in 1966, he was widely regarded as more "dovish" on Vietnam policy than State Secretary Dean Rusk.

The president, who said he ac-

LONDON (Reuters)—The British race controversy accelerated Thursday with a revolt by immigration officials, further dock strikes and an opinion poll that indicated many whites favor discrimination against non-white immigrants.

Thirty-nine immigration men at London's Heathrow Airport wrote a letter supporting Enoch Powell, the right-winger who was expelled from the opposition Conservative party's "shadow cabinet," where he was defence spokesman, for denouncing non-white immigration.

More support for Powell came from 1,000 London longshoremen who announced a 24-hour strike today and a march on Parliament.

TOP MINISTERS
Prime Minister Wilson called a meeting of top ministers to consider the immigration men's action. One of the officials was suspended.

Meanwhile a Gallup poll said 75 per cent of those polled favored tighter controls on immigration. Forty-seven per cent said it should not be a crime to discriminate against a non-white person for a job.

40 PER CENT
Only 40 per cent thought job discrimination should be outlawed. Even fewer, 34 per cent, thought discrimination in house selling should be made a crime. Forty-nine per cent said this should not be made an offence.

The dispute centred on a bill by which the Labor government seeks to prohibit discrimination in housing, education, jobs and certain financial fields. The bill received agreement in principle in the House of Commons Tuesday night.

LARGE EXTENT
The whole affair has to a large extent turned British politics inside out. Longshoremen, frequently labelled Communist dupes because of their readiness for wildcat strikes, have marched on the House of Commons bellowing enthusiastic

Logexpo Official Convicted

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Prefontaine, former supervisor of bookings for Logexpo, was sentenced Thursday to three years in penitentiary after being found guilty of conspiracy, accepting kickbacks and breach of trust while working for the Expo 67 accommodation agency.

Prefontaine, in his 50s, was sentenced to one year on the conspiracy charge, one year for accepting kickbacks and three for breach of trust, all sentences to be served concurrently.

Judge Jacques Anctil of Sessions Court said the accused had shown complete disregard for the public interest.

Prefontaine resigned his post before Expo opened in April, 1967.

During his trial Prefontaine admitted offering reservations to several motel operators for a price several weeks before quitting his job with the world's fair housing organization.

Byelections Piling Up

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett shuffled his cabinet Thursday, bringing in one new minister, and announced that further changes would take place following a mini-general election later this summer.

The newcomer to cabinet ranks is Waldo Skillings, 61, MLA for Victoria, who was made minister of trade, commerce and industry.

Wesley Black, 57, a cabinet veteran who held the two portfolios of health and provincial secretary, becomes the new minister of highways while retaining the post of provincial secretary.

Ralph Loffmark, 47, who entered cabinet ranks in 1964 as trade minister, becomes the new minister of health and hospital insurance.

After the swearing-in by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, at Government House at 4:15 p.m., Mr. Bennett told an impromptu press conference there is the prospect of "four or five" more byelections this year.

More June Votes?

"There is no provincial general election in sight," the premier told reporters. "But with the number of byelections, there will be a miniature election this summer."

Asked whether this meant a series of June byelections, he said: "I'm not saying anything about that."

Mr. Bennett declined to elaborate on the number and location of coming provincial byelections. At present one is to be held to fill a vacancy in the two-seat riding of Vancouver South on May 21.

In addition, Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane resigned earlier this week to accept an appointment as a B.C. Supreme Court Justice, and Randolph Harding, NDP member for Revelstoke-

Slocan, said he would resign shortly to contest the federal seat in Kootenay West.

The premier said he expected some other members to resign their seats in the legislature to run federally.

The cabinet shuffle, expected since Mr. Bennett took over the highways portfolio on a temporary basis following the resignation of Philip Gagliardi during the past session, disappointing those who had expected some new, young blood to be brought in.

It also quashed speculation that one of the three women ministers without portfolio would be given a job as full minister.

Mr. Bennett told reporters the women ministers were doing "a wonderful job" and could to their work best on a roving commission.

Emotional Moment

The premier indicated that even when what he termed "final cabinet changes" were made this summer, the women would not be affected.

It was an emotional moment for the premier when his close personal friend and bridge partner, Mr. Skillings, was sworn in as minister. Mr. Bennett struggled to hold back his tears and after the ceremony warmly congratulated the member for Victoria, who was first elected in 1960 and has won three elections.

He called Mr. Skillings "a man of great experience" in the fields of municipal government, education and business, adding, "Perhaps because he is a close friend of mine he has been held back. Otherwise, he might have been in the cabinet before now."

Mr. Skillings, an insurance executive in private life, said later: "I want to say how pleased and thrilled I am to be appointed to this cabinet of Premier Bennett, and I'm particularly pleased to take the oath of office under General Pearkes, an old personal friend, as practically one of his last duties as lieutenant-governor."

"I fully realize my responsibilities as minister, and will try to the best of my ability to fill this cabinet office."

The ceremony was formal but not stiff. Mr. Pearkes exchanged banter with the ministers as they signed the record after taking the oath of office. To Mr. Black, who was

Bruch Isolated By Socreds Over Patchup

Herbert Bruch, national president of the Social Credit Party, was isolated by his party Thursday in his contention that Socreds and Quebec Creditistes were about to patch up old differences.

Expressing surprise and disagreement with statements by the Esquimalt MLA were his vice-president, the former leader of the party and the four-man parliamentary caucus.

Orvis Kennedy, association vice-president said in Edmonton that he was surprised to learn of the proposed reunion between the two groups.

"No such union has been considered by the national council or, to my knowledge, by any of the provincial Social Credit leagues affiliated with the national association," he said.

STATEMENT REGRET
Howard Johnston, MP for Okanagan-Revelstoke in the last Parliament, and caucus president, said in Ottawa the Social Credit caucus regrets that Bruch's announcement came without consultation or agreement with the party's federal executive or caucus.

"Under these circumstances, the members of caucus wish to dissociate themselves from this announcement," said Johnston.

Former Socred national leader, Robert Thompson, said there had not been, as far as he was aware, any consultations with either Creditiste leader, Real Caouette, or Bruch.

Thompson has accused Bruch of going behind the back of the caucus of western MPs in seeking an act which was unconstitutional.

STAND MAINTAINED
Acting leader A. D. Peterson commented that he had heard nothing from Caouette.

However, Bruch said in Victoria Thursday that he stands by his previous statements.

"I don't want to get into a fight with Mr. Thompson," Bruch said, "but I would say that I'm not dealing with the caucus but with the national council of the party. The caucus has been kept advised of our moves toward reconciliation."

SOCRED SLATE?

Referring to a report, quoting a Ralliement des creditistes spokesman, as saying it would run English-speaking candidates in Manitoba, New Brunswick and Ontario, Bruch said:

"I have just received a communication from the party in Manitoba that states there will be a full slate of our candidates in that province and they will be Social Credit candidates."

OTTAWA (CP)—Pope Paul may come to Canada next month to attend the national conference on poverty sponsored by Christian churches in Canada. (See also Page 7.)

Police Clubs Curb Sit-In

NEW YORK (AP)—A double file of plainclothes police pushed and clubbed their way into the east entrance of Columbia University's law library Friday morning in an attempt to end a three-day sit-in by militant student demonstrators.

The move followed an earlier announcement by acting dean Henry Coleman that university president Grayson Kirk had conferred with Mayor John Lindsay and asked for "police help."

T-4 Too Taxing

KELOWNA (CP) — Officials of the national revenue department are pondering the case of Abraham Dubrett of nearby Winfield.

He doesn't read or write. He also didn't file a 1966 income tax return.

Dubrett was charged with failure to file a return and appeared in court Monday but entered no plea. He was remanded to May 6.

"I don't know about a return," Dubrett told the court. "I can't read or write. I never went to school."

"I think this man has a real problem," said prosecutor Kenneth Davis.

He said he would notify the revenue department about the matter "and perhaps they can interview him." Officials said Thursday the revenue department office in Penticton has been notified.

Fast Cut of Tape Ends Film Fuss

RIGHT GUY: There have been hard words between film producer Will Gray and the department of travel. When Mr. Gray showed his film on Vancouver, titled Place to Be, for a private screening Wednesday, he was upset because not a soul turned up from the department.

I suggested he call deputy minister Ken Worley and ask what the score was. Mr. Worley, who likes action, said if the film was available, he would like to see it.

The deputy minister had his staff in for a special showing Thursday and the general impression was good. Mr. Gray was satisfied and will see the minister Ken Kiernan next week. The basic need now is for 200 copies of the film to be put into circulation by the National Film Board.

Congratulations to Ron Worley for his fast snip job on the red tape.

COME FORWARD: Somewhere there may be a couple whose wedding scrap book is missing an item. About 50 years ago they got a card of congratulation from a friend call Garraff and the card shows Torquay. The postmark is Metehosin.

The card was found behind an old fireplace by W. H. Roberts, who lives at 1085 Verrinder, and he would like the owners to have the card.

It looks as if it was addressed to Frank Peachey or Veachey. I now have the card and would be happy to see it returned home.

NOISES OFF: There seems to be a bit of a fuss in Bastion Square about the promotion activities, according to our man Godfrey Holloway.

The office occupants are unhappy about the bagpiper who paraded recently around the square. Little do they know that Her Majesty has a piper under her window when enjoying a country breakfast. Biggest compliment to affairs in the square is that a business firm used the borrow boy in conjunction with a fashion photo thing. The fashion house does not even occupy space in the square's fair.

WORTH A TRY: Can a wildlife documentary film play a regular downtown movie house and be a success? Odeon manager Jack Armstrong is going to give it a whirl starting May 1 when he will show High, Wild and Free.

The full-length feature produced by Gordon Eastman was shot in northern B.C.

Shots include sequences on grizzly bears, moose, steelhead fishing, stone sheep, mountain goats and most of the big game animals.

This is Eastman's first try at 35-millimeter, big-screen stuff.

GAMES PEOPLE PLAY: Reader Joan Watson got one of these chain letters in the mail asking her to send handwritten copies of a thing titled Think a Prayer to 20 people.

The letter was unsigned and unsealed. What's more it was just duplicated, not handwritten. What worries our reader is the last paragraph, which seems more like a threat than a prayer.

It reads: "This is no joke, you will receive it in the mail. Send 20 copies to friends you think need good luck. Please do not send money. Do not keep this copy. It must leave your hands in 96 hours after receiving it. A U.S. officer received $7,000. Don Elliot received $60,000 but because he broke the chain he lost it while in the Philippines. Gen. Noble lost his life six days after receiving a copy. He failed to circulate the prayer. However, before his death he received $75,000 he had won." All the prayer says is, "Trust in the Lord with all your might and acknowledge Him and He will light your way."

That's it. Get busy writing like mad, or else!

Agent Killer Later Slays Self

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—An FBI agent was shot and killed Thursday, apparently after he confronted an escaped convict wanted for a California murder. Police said the fugitive later killed himself with the same gun.

The Bexar County sheriff's office said the body of FBI agent Douglas Price, 27, was found near his car, shot five times.

Several blocks away, David Rice Chubb, 27, who escaped from the Bexar County courthouse in San Antonio Feb. 21 and was sought in connection with the killing of Frank Kohne, 71, of Castro Valley, Calif., was found dying on the running board of a stolen city utility truck.

Gout Not Fatal—Of Itself

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Can you settle a dispute which involves what might be an important question: Can gout ever be fatal? "A" says it can be frightfully painful but is never fatal. "B" says it can cause death. Which is right?—J.A.

You are correct in saying that this can be an important question.

I don't think anyone ever died from a swollen, exquisitely tender big toe the favorite place for gout to strike. In that sense, I guess we can say it isn't a "fatal disease."

But it is important to look at it another way. Gout is the result of an excessive build-up of uric acid and urates in the body. Tophi, or crystals of urates, can form in the joints, and pain can strike elsewhere than in the toe.

Your Good Health

The dangerous aspect, aside from the pain and disability, is that the buildup of uric acid also can cause kidney stones to form, and a substantial number of deaths are reported each year from kidney damage gradually caused by stones.

The deaths may go on the death certificates as "kidney disease," but the real, underlying cause is uric acid, the same thing which causes gout.

Therefore, the person who takes effective steps to reduce his uric acid very often is lengthening his life as well as protecting himself from attacks of gout. I have seen figures as high as 10,000 for the number of deaths attributed in a year to kidneys damaged by stones traced to high uric acid.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are radium or x-ray treatments always given after a cancer operation, even though all the cancer cells were removed? I have in mind an intestinal operation.—E.D.

No, radiation is not always given but it is very frequently used, particularly if there is difficulty in knowing whether ALL cells probably were removed. That, however, depends on the location, whether the cancer is clearly encapsulated and has not spread outside a definite area, and other matters.

one of the original SoCred ministers in 1952 and has held a series of cabinet posts — including provincial secretary for 16 years — he said: "Are you ready to take on new responsibility?"

"At any time, Your Honor," Mr. Black replied. Then, in apparent reference to reports that he would resign because of a troublesome back ailment, the minister added: "I feel like a million."

Mr. Bennett congratulated the newly appointed health minister and told Mr. Loffmark, "Look well after the health and hospital services of this province."

It was the first cabinet addition since three women ministers were appointed in December 1966, and Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell took over the social welfare portfolio from Mr. Black.

New full ministers were last created in March, 1964, when Mr. Loffmark, Mr. Campbell and Mines Minister Donald Brothers were sworn in.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the cabinet changes announced Thursday still mean the cabinet "is a tight little group."

He said Mr. Skillings had been "an ex-officio member" of the cabinet for a long time as a close personal associate and adviser to the premier.

"I don't anticipate any changes in policy," said Mr. Strachan. "They will still be inadequate."

The NDP leader said he expected the ministers without portfolio and several backbenchers would be disappointed because they had been passed over.

About the premier's prediction that further vacancies would occur, necessitating more byelections, Mr. Strachan said: "Does he mean Bruch and Gagliardi?"

Herbert Bruch, MLA for Esquimalt and national president of the Social Credit Party, has been rumored as a federal candidate June 25. Mr. Gagliardi resigned as highways minister last March under heavy attack in the legislature, and there has been speculation that he too might enter federal politics.

Mr. Strachan suggested the premier must have advance notice of moves along these lines in order to make his prediction of four or five byelections in the province this summer.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said he wished all the new ministers success and expressed the hope that Mr. Bennett would bring some new blood into the cabinet later this year.

He added: "I also hope the appointment of Mr. Loffmark to the health portfolio won't break the continuity of the government's announced program to improve mental health services in the province. I would hope the new minister makes an early statement dealing with this area of concern."

Mr. Perrault refused to comment on rumors that he might resign as Liberal leader and MLA for North Vancouver Capilano to contest the June 25 federal election. He said: "I have had a number of offers (of nominations) but I've made no decisions along that line."

There are now 16 cabinet ministers including four ministers without portfolio.

cepted Goldberg's resignation with regret, said the former secretary of labor and Supreme Court justice probably would remain at the UN until early June.

"While certain matters that he now has under way are being handled and disposed of,"

STILL AVAILABLE

He said Goldberg is leaving for personal reasons—but "would be available to the government to consult and help out with any problems that we might feel he was equipped to help us handle."

Goldberg told a news conference at UN headquarters in New York that he has worked for peace during his two years and nine months as head of the U.S. delegation and that: "I have resigned in the belief that I can best further these objectives in private life."

He did not elaborate, but indicated that the burdens of his office limited his possibilities. He was careful, however, to avoid any criticism of U.S. policies on Vietnam and he praised the March 31 decision of Johnson to order a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

He said he had made no plans for the future, but that he probably would return to private law practice.

Despite reports that Goldberg was unhappy with the Johnson administration's Vietnam policies, he would go no further than to acknowledge there had been differences on policy within the government. He said, however, that was not the motivating reason for his resignation.

U.S. Loses Billions In Rush

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. treasury department reported Thursday a record $1,197,000,000 gold loss during March, raising the total drain in the recent gold crisis to more than $2,000,000,000.

It was in mid-March that the United States and its six European gold partners shot off the flow of the precious metal from their stockpiles to private speculators by abandoning the London gold pool.

Thursday's report, however, was the first exact accounting of the loss in gold suffered by the United States since devaluation of the British pound Nov. 18, a move which led to a series of frenzied gold buying sprees in Europe.

Hopeful Sign

U.S., Hanoi Chat Still Indecisive

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives met again Thursday in Laos without coming to agreement on a site for preliminary peace talks.

But the fact that the North Vietnamese charge d'affaires in Hanoi, the Laotian capital, invited the U.S. ambassador over for a 30-minute chat was seen here as a possibly hopeful sign of Communist interest in breaking the deadlock.

Kremlin Backs Warsaw Choice

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has thrown its full weight behind Hanoi's demand that Warsaw be the site of Vietnam talks with the United States, diplomatic sources said Thursday.

Moscow's influence in the Polish capital is powerful. The sources noted the Kremlin could better "keep an eye" on Washington-Hanoi exchanges in Warsaw than in any other place suggested so far.

In Warsaw, informed sources said the Polish government has urged at least eight countries — including Canada — to help persuade the United States to hold preliminary talks with Hanoi in Warsaw. Apart from Canada, the nations included Switzerland, India, Japan, Britain, Belgium, Italy and France.

KREMLIN PRESSURE

Kremlin pressure was seen behind the Warsaw action. The Polish foreign ministry reportedly told the ambassadors of those countries that if the U.S. could talk with Communist China in Warsaw, why not also with North Vietnam?

Peking and Washington ambassadors have for nearly 10 years been carrying on periodic discussion in Warsaw about matters of mutual concern.

NOT NEUTRAL

The U.S. has objected to Warsaw on grounds it is not a neutral country by virtue of supplying arms to Hanoi. The largely anti-Zionist purge of officials now under way in Poland is also a sore point with Washington.

Washington is said to feel that a choice of Warsaw as a place for preliminary talks would bring considerable pressure to hold actual peace discussions there as well.

Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey predicted Thursday that "in a very short time a place will be agreed upon for the preliminary talks."

Humphrey, speaking at Oxford, Miss., forecast success for peace negotiations provided both sides have the will for a peaceful solution.

It has been more than three weeks since Washington and Hanoi first publicly proclaimed their readiness for direct talks. But so far the opposing sides have bogged down in argument over where their special envoys should meet.

KEY ISSUE

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey of the state department confirmed an Associated Press report from Hanoi that U.S. Ambassador William Sullivan went to the North Vietnamese Embassy to see Hanoi's top diplomat there, Nguyen Chan.

U.S. authorities here said North Vietnam regards the location of the proposed talks as an important issue and it is mounting diplomatic pressure for Warsaw, Poland, as a place agreeable to Hanoi and painful to Washington.

Sullivan and Chan have met several times, averaging around 15 minutes each time, since the Washington-Hanoi exchanges about a talk site got under way. Formal diplomatic messages have passed through this channel.

Protesters, Veterans In Collision

LONDON (AP) — Australian and New Zealand war veterans clashed with anti-Vietnam war demonstrators Thursday at a wreath-laying ceremony at London's Cenotaph, the national war memorial.

The veterans were commemorating Anzac Day, honoring the Australian and New Zealand dead in the two world wars.

The veterans surged up the steps of the Cenotaph and tried to destroy the anti-war group's wreath.

The veterans also grabbed the demonstrators' banners, ripping them and trampling on them. Police arrested eight demonstrators.

Bullets Miss Boumedienne

ALGIERS (UPI) — Would-be assassins machine-gunned the car of Algerian President Houari Boumedienne Thursday. Boumedienne escaped with cuts but one of his bodyguards was slightly wounded in the first overt attack on the Arab leader since he seized power in June 1965 from Ahmed Ben Bella.

Boumedienne, 43, was slashed on the lip by shards of glass from the shattered windshield. His chauffeur was slightly wounded in the first overt attack on the Arab leader since he seized power in June 1965 from Ahmed Ben Bella.

Boumedienne had just left a cabinet meeting in the government palace when the staccato of gunfire was unleashed in an area jammed with lunch hour strollers, women and children.

FLAGGED DOWN

Authorities said the president's car was waved to a stop by a small child and Boumedienne spoke briefly with the boy, the son of a former guerrilla fighter. As the presidential car resumed speed on the Esplanade de l'Afrique, gunmen opened fire on the German-built limousine. Boumedienne's chauffeur slumped over the wheel, wounded in the shoulder, and the president ducked for cover.

Rabah Bitat, minister of state for transportation, was riding with the president but escaped injury.

The government-controlled Algerian news agency APS announced the assassination attempt and subsequent details but did not pinpoint the location of the gunfight between the bodyguard and the assailants or their identities.

ANTI-ISRAELI

The attempt on the life of the hollow-faced, mustachioed former guerrilla fighter came only five months after Boumedienne smashed an attempted military coup against his regime, which ranks as one of the most militant and anti-Israeli in the Middle East.

The attempted coup was led by Tahar Zbiri, an armored unit commander who is still at large.

Boumedienne overthrew Ben Bella in a bloodless coup when he feared Ben Bella, Algeria's first president after winning independence from France in 1962, was out to liquidate Boumedienne as a potential rival.

Ben Bella has never been put on trial and remains in a suburban Algiers jail.

To strengthen his hold on a country raked by political and economic unrest, Boumedienne last fall reorganized the leadership of Algeria's only legal political party, the National Liberation Front.

The reshuffle led to the elimination of Boumedienne's opponents from leadership posts and lessened the role of the army commanders.

Algerian sources said Thursday's machinegun fire was believed to have come either from a tunnel near Algiers University.

Mercenary Force Gets Home

BRUSSELS (UPI) — White mercenary soldiers whose participation in a rebellion in the Congo last year nearly threw that country into chaos, were secretly returned to their homes throughout Europe Thursday.

The 127 adventurers were flown from their refugee camp in Rwanda to secret landing places in Italy, France and Belgium.

Jordan Calls UN Talks On Parade

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Jordan Thursday requested an urgent meeting of the new Security Council in an attempt to thwart Israel's plans for holding an independence day parade in Jerusalem next Thursday.

Jordan's ambassador Muhammad El-Farra said he had submitted a request for the urgent meeting to council president Jacob Alik of the Soviet Union.

Nigeria Ready to Talk Peace

LONDON (CP) — Dr. Okot Arikpo says Nigeria is ready to start unconditional peace talks with secessionist Biafra by May 1 under the auspices of Canada's Arnold Smith, Commonwealth secretary-general.

The Nigerian external affairs commissioner told a press conference Thursday his government will give consideration to inviting Commonwealth observers into Nigeria if this will ease fears of the Ibo tribe of Biafra of a massacre following the end of the 10-month war.

Several Nigerian questioners called on Arikpo to continue the war against the breakaway Eastern Region even to the point of destroying oil installations in Port Harcourt. But Arikpo said the port will be spared.

TROOPS WARNED

Federal troops had been cautioned to stay away from foreign-owned industrial installations if possible to ensure that Nigeria recovers quickly once the war ends.

Arikpo has met with Smith, Prime Minister Wilson and Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson. He indicated that Smith is at the centre of hopes to end the conflict.

FAITH BROKEN?

Arikpo also charged that Biafra broke faith with Smith's previous attempts to start peace talks. He said Smith said last October the Biafrans were ready for talks and the federal government sent emissaries to London. They waited here for one week but the Biafrans didn't turn up.

Six African heads of state also failed to bring peace. Earlier this month Smith again advised Lagos the Biafrans were prepared to talk.

In his earlier attempts Smith suggested that Commonwealth observers, including Canadians, might be invited to patrol a ceasefire line.

It said the Viet Cong are preparing to recommence in the capital the "terrorist acts which they perpetrated during Tet." Tet, the lunar new year period at the end of January was the starting point this year of the Viet Cong's urban offensive.

In the curtailed air war against North Vietnam, bombing action was again limited Thursday to the 170 miles south of the 19th parallel.

NEAR HUE

With intelligence reports indicating 20 enemy battalions with in striking distance of Hue, 25 miles northeast of the A Shau Valley, about 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroops have moved into blocking positions.

Striking out southwest of Hue, the paratroops have not run into serious opposition but have destroyed 10 North Vietnamese trucks and other equipment since swinging into action last Friday, a government communique said.

The U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division in a directive warned its officers they should expect a high level of enemy-initiated action soon in the north.

Without Delay

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE LEADER. Mr. Robert Stanfield, is asking some pertinent questions about Canadian foreign policy—if any.

He points out that the newly-appointed minister for external affairs, Mr. Mitchell Sharp, had been expected to conduct a foreign policy review. It develops the review was concluded before the minister came to office.

Whatever the competence of those who were involved in such a reassessment of national attitudes, Mr. Stanfield says, "it simply does not make sense for the people who have been making foreign policy in Canada to ask themselves to re-evaluate it. Of course they have concluded they have been doing the right thing. What else would they conclude?"

Mr. Paul Martin, who was Mr. Sharp's predecessor, was a widely experienced minister in the external affairs portfolio. Few Canadians, unless it was Mr. Lester Pearson, have enjoyed the reputation Mr. Martin earned. Not since Sir Robert Borden, perhaps, has a minister from Ottawa made such an impression abroad.

But to a great extent ministers inherit policy with departments, guided by the advice of the permanent establishment. In no case has this been more marked than in external affairs, where professional efficiency possibly carries more weight than elsewhere.

It is hardly likely that Mr. Sharp, fresh from anything but triumph in the ministry of finance, comes to his new office armed with fresh and vital policy guidelines. It is far more believable that he would follow the trails blazed by Mr. Martin, on the advice of his permanent staff.

Mr. Stanfield, therefore, makes good sense when he suggests that any reassessment should involve competent Canadians outside the department of external affairs as well as within it.

That such a review is of some urgency is underscored by doubts expressed by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, among others, as to the advisability of continuing commitments to NATO, for example.

There is another aspect of the foreign policy position which demands even more insistently a quick solution.

At this time the Quebec government is offering to Gabon assistance in the field of education, and this in spite of the fact that Canada has suspended diplomatic relations with the little African state over a matter of protocol.

This is an internal affair, and obviously one for constitutional adjustment. But it tends to make the external affairs department look a bit ridiculous.

In these two areas we must move resolutely and at once: to define precisely what responsibility we are prepared to accept abroad and to settle finally the authority of provincial and federal governments in foreign relations.

Sell the Statistics

THE SQUALL which has blown up over the British Columbia Motor Vehicles Branch selling a list of automobile registrations to a market research company is probably disproportionate to the results—except in principle. The sale of this information will contribute to the rivers of "junk mail" that flow across the country on a relatively small scale, if at all. A car registration list is but one of numerous sources of commercial intelligence.

However, though we would not be emphatic in accusing the government, as Liberal leader Ray Perrault has, of being a party to the junk mail trade—especially when Attorney-General Robert Bonner says that as far as he knows the lists are sold for use in statistical studies and the names are not turned over to mail order houses—the principle involved is still important.

One has no option but to give the Motor Vehicle Branch the personal information it requires for registration. If government is entitled to sell this information to interested third parties, where does its right end to look into private lives and pass on the details?

In this connection The Albertan has a good suggestion. The Alberta government is similarly under attack for selling its registration data to a Toronto firm (and it is incidentally worthy of note that the prairie province got $40,000 for the list last year, while British Columbia's list has been sold for "about $15,000"). Names and addresses can be of no use in making commercial and industrial statistical comparisons, the Calgary paper suggests, and if there is a market for information regarding the numbers and makes of motor vehicles in use in the province, why not process the statistics through the government's own facilities and sell them bare of personal information?

No one could object to a market research firm learning that there were 1,263 Dugdeon Eighties still running in B.C. and probably in need of spare parts. If what is really wanted is the names and addresses of the owners so they can be pestered, the government should have no part of the business.

Only in Britain?

OF MORE THAN PASSING INTEREST to Canadians at this time are some remarks made on a recent BBC program which posed the question: Can politicians tell the truth and yet succeed in politics? The program—one of the new "Meeting Point" interview series—was entitled "Damn your principles! Stick to your party" and showed that many people firmly believe that it is not in the nature of politicians to tell the truth.

Among those taking part in the production was Lord Beeching, former chairman of the British Railways Board.

"Most politicians behave deceitfully, though some are better than others," he said. "Members of both sides of the House have been at pains to explain to me that you have to deceive the people in order to succeed. I just don't believe that you have to."

"I think," he continued, "while I was at British Railways my problem with the general public diminished because they got to know that if I said something I meant it; therefore they ceased to argue. If people think: 'We can push this man off, he's just making frightening noises,' then they'll go on pushing."

"People didn't disagree with my policies when I was at British Railways—only with the application of them in so far as it affected them personally. But politicians are always saying: 'You can have this beneficial policy, and we will safeguard you against any particularly painful results.' It's just untrue."

Last offence he taken here it should be made clear that his lordship was, of course, only referring to British politicians.

"Let's try that once again, Bob—pucker up!"

Ottawa Offbeat

'Honest Bob' Stanfield, in Violent Contrast, Has Punch to Beat His Swinging Grit Rival

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IN the psychedelic aftermath of the bilingual charisma of Pierre Elliott Trudeau, the question ringing down the corridors of power is:

"What on earth will Bob Stanfield do now?"

What manner of counter-magic can be conjured forth from the rather fast-talking exterior of The Quiet Man from Toronto?

It was only last September at the Toronto convention when they made him their new leader, the ecstatic Conservatives were convinced they had managed the miracle of minting an instant prime minister—as instant as the next federal election.

"Beautiful," they cried, as they watched, in awe and wonder, their man eat a banana. Here was a character convention-crafted of good old-fashioned integrity, as dependable as that underwear of trap-door fame.

But now look what's happened—they're confronted and confounded by an even more politically remarkable character with a rose in his teeth and sometimes sandals on his feet.

So you hear some of the Tories talking that maybe their man had better shuck the winter woollies for a black leather jacket and a string of beads if he is to cope with "Potent Pierre."

"Honest Bob" hasn't said much, having only recently returned from a journey down east to see what kind of a rose crop he can expect from his Halifax garden this season.

Those posies could be coming up sort of thorny.

Even the hardest-hearted Ottawa observers—and there are some that even Dr. Christiana Barnard might have trouble dealing with—have proved themselves to be as soft as the sorrowful spectacle of Dalton "Dolly Baby" Camp and Edward "Fast Eddie" Goodman, the Conservative king-makers who, having dumped Diefenbaker, now are faced by the prospect of a young Grit double-for-Dief who speaks both languages.

Quel horreur! The dry stick image of "Honest Bob" was fractured to some extent at a private dinner of the supposed "image makers," when he came rolling on with an off-the-record Sam Slick performance that simply had to be seen to be believed.

Even he seemed surprised that he had this hard-boiled crew of "Ottawa observers" rolling in the aisles.

Now there are those among what has become known in the fashionable idiom as "the media" who insist there is more to Bob than meets the eye—that it is only mischievous gossip that he bleeds anti-treeze and that the Sam Slick character is the REAL Stanfield.

He is not, they say quite unnecessarily, going to panic simply because the pesky Grits have come up with a heh-heh, millionaire, jet-setting, fast-car wheeling, girl-fascinating, swinging mix of James Bond and John F. Kennedy in TWO LANGUAGES yet!

The story around Stanfield headquarters is that against the Trudeau explosion in wide screen, stereophonic sound and magnificence, they'll pit Bob's brand of old hickory integrity, dry-as-dust humor, Maritime durability, country-general-store type of solid dependability. And let's just see how "Elegant Elliott" cracks that, eh boys?

They could have something there, too.

For there have been Stanfield-type winners before.

In the good old Yewland States there was Cal Ouldridge who didn't choose to run but made it anyway.

Then there was McKinley who ran a campaign without stirring off his front porch—called, coincidentally, "The Front Porch Campaign"—and, by a cakewalk, won.

Here in Canada we had the charismatic figure of Wilfrid Laurier, the "silver plume" of political legend, whose bilingual reincarnation some seem to see in Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

And he was beaten by a dour, woodenly stiff, weather-worn martinet of uncompromising integrity by name of—and get the coincidence—ROBERT Borden.

All those episodes happened before the days of "creative news," as the television "personalities" call it, and came about in the black and white of printed fact.

Faint Voice Cries for Justice From Wilderness of Communism

By PETER WORTHINGTON

redemption: In 1935 he had been the lawyer who defended Stepan Bandera in Warsaw. Bandera was a Ukrainian nationalist who fought both Hitler and Stalin and who, in 1957, was assassinated by means of a cyanide gun in Munich by the Soviet Secret Police.

After the war Poland extradited Horvody from Czechoslovakia and charged him with being a war criminal.

The investigation revealed that rather than being a Nazi collaborator, Horvody had been an enemy of Fascism and had been imprisoned by the Germans. Charges were not pressed.

Writes Horvody in his letter: "Polish justice did not allow itself to be led astray. It managed to preserve its dignity and refused to put an innocent person on trial."

Instead of releasing the innocent Horvody or returning him to Prague, the Polish authorities delivered him to the Soviet Union—where, at the height of Stalinism, "a defendant was considered to be a criminal merely because he was arraigned."

Horvody writes: "It is well known what Soviet methods of inquest were like at that time. There existed only one-sided methods of investigation which essentially helped the prosecution. However I endured all the horrors of police cruelties and refused all slanderous implications."

"Through lack of incriminating evidence I was not brought to trial. But on the basis of a decision by the minister of the Interior I was committed to a forced labor camp for 25 years. My guilt was established by administrative decree—that is, by police decree."

Begging Pravda to look into his case and to pursue the truth, Horvody writes: "I have been illegally imprisoned for 20 years without trial and without sentence and without a chance to defend myself."

He notes: "Never in my life have I committed any foul act. My only mistake was that I thoughtlessly trusted Soviet propaganda."

Horvody, the lawyer, passes Soviet law and the Soviet constitution which he feels are hollow and meaningless. He

Now "Honest Bob" has got to make it against a slacks and sports coated "let's have a party" swinger who stands, rainbow-hued in the full color glow of the boob-tube, at the doorway of 24 Sussex Drive, conveying the romantic impression of a rejuvenated Cary Grant doing a re-make of "Philadelphia Story."

The very contrast, insist his supporters, will make it for Bob Stanfield. They recall the skipper, firm hand on the helm, having weathered worse blows.

So the only question now is, have the Tories yet decided whether they'll win this next election together, or be slaughtered singly.

Harvest of Exploitation

White Colonialists Face Retribution

By PROF. ARNOLD TOYNBEE

THE white minority of mankind has been dominant, by now, for a century in Africa, for two centuries in Asia, for four centuries in the New World. This is plenty of time for the record book to have been "written within and on the backside"; and, the book being now full, the seals are today being opened.

All round the globe the white minority is under fire from the accumulated resentment of its fellow human beings over whom it has temporarily been exercising dominion. Plaster's rape of Peru, Britain's opium war against China, Bristol's and Liverpool's slave-trade, and countless other white misdeeds are beginning to revenge themselves as one seal after another of the book is being torn open.

Today the white minority of mankind is on trial.

"Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art in the way with him, lest . . . But we ex-dominant whites have not been quick. We have held on blindly till the thirteenth hour. Is our penalty now inescapable? Shall we by no means come out from thence till we have paid the uttermost farthing?"

We have at last begun to suffer some of the tribulations that we have been inflicting on our neighbors. One plea that could be made, till yesterday, on the American people's behalf for waging war in Vietnam, and for the methods by which they were waging it, is "Forgive them, for they know not what they do."

No American family has yet been bombed with anti-personnel bombs and napalm at home; 80 per cent of American families of the living generation have never known what it is to be poor.

Till within our own lifetime the poor have always and everywhere been the majority. Today in the United States the poor are a minority—only 20 per cent of the population—and a poor minority, having no voting rights, has only two recourses in its natural and legitimate struggle with social justice. It may move the human feelings and the conscience of the rich majority (the king of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.) or it can make a desperate resort to violence (the strategy of Stokely Carmichael).

The choice between these alternatives lies with those well-to-do middle-aged whites who, in the United States, are at present in power. Since half of the submerged 80 per cent of their fellow citizens are Negroes, a racial civil war is the retribution that the affluent whites are going to bring upon themselves if they harden their hearts.

Last summer in a roadside store in California, I picked up a book of photographs of Vietnam. The pictures were horrifying: peasants weeping over their blighted crops, wrecked houses, and slaughtered kinsfolk; children with their limbs torn off by explosives or with their flesh seared by napalm; American soldiers looking on passively while their South Vietnamese auxiliaries were torturing Viet Cong or North Vietnamese prisoners. As I was looking through the pictures, I was taking it for granted that this book was anti-war propaganda. But my eye was then caught by the captions, and these were to the following effect: "Unpleasant, isn't it? But, if we were not doing this here today, it would be done to us tomorrow."

The book was propaganda all right, but it was not anti-war propaganda; it was the opposite. It was designed to kill the exposed nerve of the American people's conscience; it was designed to make well-to-do Americans feel that they were justified in making war on the other side of the globe, and were justified in drafting their own children to make war for the sake of preserving "the American way of life."

A mirage flickers on the horizon—the mirage of "monolithic world communism"—but the Americans find themselves locked in battle, not with "world communism," but with an emotion keyed-up by the accumulated resentment provoked by a century of white domination there.

Meanwhile, at home, the very thing overtakes the rich American that he has been seeking to keep at a distance by waging war on the other side of the globe. The pitch of the American Negro's anti-white feeling is even higher than the pitch of the Vietnamese peasant's. The Negro has a still longer score to pay off: two centuries of slavery followed by one century of illusory emancipation.

"It will be done to us in our homes tomorrow." Tomorrow, nowadays, is today, since technology has now annihilated time as well as distance. But the havoc which, as I write, has been wrought in America's cities from coast to coast is not the work of "world communism" any more than the Vietnamese resistance movement is.

White America's adversary in Vietnam is Asian anti-colonialism; white America's foe at home is black power.

White America has mistaken the identity of her distant adversary and has ignored the presence of the adversary in her midst.

But perhaps the lesson is at last being truly taken to heart by the key-continent in the planet's white minority—that is to say, by the white section of the population of the United States. Evidently the police and National Guardsmen and troops that were mobilized to cope with the Negro riots provoked by the assassination of Dr. King had instructions to refrain from behaving as their comrades behaved, on the evidence of the recently published official report of the president's Commission on Civil Disorders, when they were mobilized to deal with the similar riots in 1967. Last year the official representatives of the law were "trigger-happy." This time they tolerated looting and arson as a lesser evil than taking lives. This restraint is creditable both to the men who gave the orders and to the men who obeyed them. "Learning comes through suffering."

If the American whites have at last taken to accordance with Aeschylus' dictum, "The white minority of mankind can begin to see a gleam of hope in what might well have been an all-black future."

I Beg to Differ

Happily Married, Carl?

By FRANK LOWME

ONE of my favorite advice columns is the one headed "Ask Frank." Recently there was a heart-breaking letter from a fellow named Carl. The letter went like this:

"I went to a cocktail party where there were about 50 people just milling around making small talk. A rather sexy-looking gal spotted me from across the room and pretty soon she was beside me starting up a conversation. When I realized that she had more than a casual interest in me, I thought I'd better put her straight, so I told her I was a married man."

"She then asked, 'Happily?' I think that was an extremely personal question for one stranger to ask another. What do you suppose she had in mind?"

Well, Carl, before I can answer your question, you are going to have to tell me a little more.

For instance, where was your wife while all this was going on?

I don't know about you, Carl, but I find at cocktail parties that most wives have some kind of magic antenna. Maybe they insert tiny receiving sets in their marlini olives, and I have learned that I can be an entire room away from my wife but if I so much as say hello to a member of the opposite sex, there she is. Zap. Like magic.

Or did you go to the cocktail party without your wife, Carl? If you did, you are a much smarter guy than you make yourself out to be in that somewhat dopey letter you wrote.

And if you were there without your wife, how do you manage this. Do you tell your wife you'll be a little late for gin-dins because you have to do to a cocktail party?

I tried that—once. And I Believe me, I know.

So finally she told me what she really wanted.

"If I can't find my host or my hostess," she confided in a low voice, "perhaps you could tell me where they hide the bathroom in this place."

I tell you, Carl, you should never jump to concealed conclusions when a beautiful stranger accosts you at a cocktail party. You ought to stick around and find out what true popularity really is.

Believe me, I know.

Right-Wing Youths Dictate to U.S. Firms

CP, from Washington

A militant conservative U.S. youth group has established a formidable barrier to U.S. plans for building trade bridges to Eastern Europe.

Young Americans for Freedom, which calls itself "the nation's most active political youth organization," wants no truck nor trade with Communists.

An affiliate of the Republican party, it claims victories over two major names in American big business.

The Firestone Tire Co. backed away from opening a synthetic rubber company in Romania after the YAF launched a national campaign to stop it.

YAF is also credited with causing American Motors to drop its plan for shipping autos to Russia in exchange for steel.

Now, YAF has taken on IBM which has been selling electronic computers, YAF says, to Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany, Poland and Bulgaria.

YAF's annual meeting in Boston next Monday will discuss the campaign directly with IBM representatives, YAF says.

"We feel its management is progressive and can be convinced that East-West trade is detrimental to American interests," says national chairman Alan MacKay. YAF opposes any U.S. wheat sales to Communist nations.

President Johnson in 1964 began his bridge-building effort to the East with trade expansion in mind. Also involved was the possibility of speeding the splintering of ties between the Soviet Union and its increasingly-restless satellites.

Trade restrictions were eased further in 1965 and 1966.

It was judged good policy to compete with West Germany, France and other nations cashing in on rising consumer demand in the Soviet orbit. This has become more important as the U.S. trade surplus shows signs of dwindling, which would increase the already-serious dollar drain.

This doesn't cut any ice with YAF, however, which has threatened domestic boycotts in the past against Firestone and American Motors, and now IBM.

When Firestone cancelled its plan in mid-1965, Democratic Senator J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas, accused YAF of being a "minor vigilante group ... out to alter, dictate or defeat official policies of the U.S. government."

State Secretary Dean Rusk has personally intervened in the IBM situation with a letter to IBM Chairman Arthur K. Watson that says to "yield to such groups is to encourage capricious interference with the vital processes of our constitutional government."

BACKGROUND

Heaviest Vietnam Fighting Yet to Come?

War Picture Darkens

By ARCH MacKENZIE, from Washington

More war, perhaps the heaviest fighting yet, appears to lie ahead in Vietnam.

This is indicated by American reports of thick traffic heading south from North Vietnam. Some speak of more mechanized supply equipment than ever—trucks bumper-to-bumper, skilfully camouflaged to blend with the thick vegetation and foil American air action.

Other reports speak of roads actually being built into the South from the North or from neighboring Laos—roads that have asphalt or less-sophisticated all-weather topping.

This is a far cry from the Northern supply chain of the past believed to depend on human backs, bicycles and a few elephants for heavy duty.

But these developments help to explain the furious pace of American bombing now in the narrow southern end of North Vietnam where the supply traffic funnels into the South of Laos.

The delay in choosing a site where the North and the U.S. could meet to discuss conditions for peace talks indicates the conviction on both sides that fighting will continue alongside any talks.

Both sides suffered gains and heavy losses in the winter-spring fighting which seriously set back pacification efforts in the South.

Each believes that its bargaining position will be strengthened by mounting or repelling fresh assaults.

The American experience in Korea, where the fighting went on for 11 months without talks and then two years more with talks, is a good guide to U.S. policy now.

President Johnson has laid plans to add as many more troops, arms and other equipment as necessary, to stand off action from the other side.

This pattern could be changed by Johnson's successor next January, if Johnson's decision to step down remains "completely irrevocable."

The public euphoria that followed North Vietnam's acceptance of the Johnson proposal to start talking about peace talks was illustrated by the way the stock market bounced ahead.

But the haggling over a site points to a long, abrasive period of diplomatic jousting and many more dead and wounded.

The Korean War started June 25, 1950, and U.S. losses from then until talks started July 31 next year were nearly 21,000 dead and about 84,000 wounded.

The toll from July, 27, 1953, when the armistice was signed, was 12,700 dead and 49,500 wounded.

The point that dragged the talks out an additional 15 months, it is recalled here, was the status of 50,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners who didn't want to go back home.

While there are fewer prisoners involved in the Vietnam war, that's a sample of the kind of snag that exists in abundance to ensure a lengthy session at the bargaining table once the table is set up.

New Deal Expected for Church

Czech Catholic Hopes Soar

By RITCHIE W. McEWEN, from Prague

Preliminary discussions on the future scope and freedom of the Roman Catholic church in Communist Czechoslovakia are expected to begin shortly, either at the Vatican or at Prague.

At present, the Catholic church in Czechoslovakia is virtually without leaders. Under the 1963 agreement between the Vatican and the recently ousted Antonin Novotny regime, the church lost not only its titular head, Archbishop Josef Beran of Prague, but also the four bishops of Brno, Zips, Arpasa and Cedic.

All five of the church leaders were either in prison or under strict house arrest at the time of the 1963 negotiations, under which all five were permitted to regain their freedom on condition that they left the country.

Archbishop Beran, who is now 80, was summoned to Rome where he became a curial cardinal.

Unofficially, the new "liberal" Communist government has let it be known that there is no objection to the return of Cardinal Josef Beran to Czechoslovakia. But at the same time, it has intimated that matters would be easier—both for the regime and the church—if neither he nor any of the other formerly imprisoned bishops took an active part in church affairs.

What the new regime would like to see would be a completely new set of church leaders to take over the reins of spiritual leadership in Czechoslovakia, leaders who have had nothing to do with the past struggle between the old Stalinist regime and the Catholic church.

Beran

The archbishop of Prague, now Cardinal Beran, it is tacitly admitted, was just as much a victim of terror and the Stalinist regime as any of the many Communists and others who are now being rehabilitated.

On the other hand, the new men in power in Czechoslovakia have no wish to be saddled with the many and involved complications which would inevitably arise should the "old" bishops return.

At present, church affairs in Czechoslovakia are being conducted by the apostolic administrator, Bishop Frantisek Tomasek, and it is considered quite possible that he may succeed the exiled Archbishop Beran as archbishop of Prague should Beran be rehabilitated by the present regime.

This, in turn, would most probably depend on an undertaking by Beran not to exercise his rights by taking any further active part in the conduct of church affairs in Czechoslovakia.

Prosperity Deferred

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN
From Padrauna, India

The big yellow tractors and earth movers sit silently, engines rusting, tires cracking in the bright sunlight.

Nearby, a man in tattered clothes squats in the dust and straightens nails on an anvil. Beyond the fence of the compound a farmer breaks up the sod with his bullock-drawn wooden plow.

To the farmer, the idle machines and silent construction compound mean that he will plant his seed and hope for rain as he always has, with little prospect that the unfinished gashes in the earth will soon bring irrigation water to his fields.

It was in 1961 that then prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, in a ceremony with Nepal's King Mahendra, inaugurated the Gandak River irrigation and flood-control project in Northeastern India. Work was to be completed in 1967.

Now, seven years and two prime ministers later, the Gandak is still untamed, and parts of two states still lie vulnerable to drought and flood.

The project includes a 2,425-foot dam on the Gandak River at the India-Nepal border to generate 15,000 kilowatts of electricity, and two main irrigation canals to carry water from the river.

One of the main canals is to stretch 120 miles westward into Uttar Pradesh. The other is to extend 155 miles east through Bihar.

The canals are expected to irrigate more than 2,800,000 acres in Bihar, converting it from a grain-deficit into a grain-surplus state, and 850,000 acres in Uttar Pradesh. Nepal, which is expected to get low-cost electricity from the dam as part of India's aid program, could get irrigation water by building a canal.

India's central government is paying for the dam and power plant, while the two state governments are borrowing money from the central government to build the canals. Used American equipment, originally furnished for another project now completed, is the only sign of foreign aid.

The dam is about half-finished, and workmen are installing steel sluice gates at the southern end.

But the state-financed canals are a different story. The eastern canal has gone only 30 of its planned 155 miles, and most of that is unlined. A watchman said work stopped 2½ years ago.

Officials blamed the 1965-67 drought for halting work on the canals. Money intended for the canals was diverted to emergency use, including digging wells, they said.

In addition, there is a dispute between the two state governments over financing.

Despite the lack of progress on the canals, a state official in Lucknow, capital of Uttar Pradesh, said the Gandak project will be completed "by the end of the fourth plan."

Since India's fourth five-year plan has been postponed by New Delhi and has not yet started, that estimate means that farmers will have to wait at least until 1973 for Gandak water to irrigate their fields.

Envoy's Return Secret

OTTAWA (CP) — No decision has been reached on when Jules Leger, Canadian ambassador to France, will return to Paris, an external affairs department spokesman repeated Thursday.

There is a possibility he will return next week, the spokesman said. If there was a possibility he would not return at all, the spokesman had not heard of it.

Leger came to Ottawa April 13 for consultation after France informed Quebec—but not Ottawa—of resumption of an international education conference of 17 French-speaking nations. The conference resumed in Paris Monday and concludes today.

Canada suspended diplomatic relations with the central African country of Gabon after Gabon invited Quebec, and not Ottawa, to the first phase of the education conference in February.

What action if any, Canada will take in regard to France likely will not be known until next week at the earliest. The spokesman said he could not estimate how prolonged Leger's stay here would have to be before it became tantamount to a suspension of relations with France.

Sharp Off To UN

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp will make his maiden speech in the United Nations next week and go on to Washington for a meeting with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk.

He is scheduled to arrive in New York at 1:30 p.m. Monday and will have discussions with UN Secretary-General U Thant, U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, British Ambassador Lord Caradon and possibly heads of missions of other countries on the Security Council.

INDEFINITE

It is still indefinite whether Mr. Sharp will address the special session of the UN General Assembly late Monday or on Tuesday. He will fly to Washington for a get-acquainted meeting with Mr. Rusk before returning to Ottawa late Tuesday.

Mr. Sharp, former finance minister appointed to the external affairs portfolio Saturday, will address the assembly to voice Canadian support for the treaty aimed at preventing the spread of nuclear weapons.

He may also touch on other subjects, such as the Middle East and Rhodesia.

STRONG ADVOCATE

Canada is a strong advocate of the treaty, drafted mainly by the U.S., Britain and Russia.

If Canada signs the treaty later this year after the UN debate on it, it will not be legally bound to rid itself of the American nuclear weapons it acquired under U.S. control in 1953.

However, the government might feel politically and morally bound to take such action.

Election Lines Forming

Robichaud Not Candidate

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Hedard Robichaud began a pullout from the Trudeau cabinet Thursday by withdrawing as candidate in the federal election scheduled for Tuesday, June 25.

The 56-year-old minister advised his Gloucester constituency association by telegram that he will not seek re-election in the vote called Tuesday. It was for "personal reasons."

Robichaud represented the New Brunswick seat since 1953. He held his portfolio for the whole of the five-year administration of Lester Pearson, Pierre Elliott Trudeau's predecessor as prime minister.

STANFIELD FOE

Robert Kirk, 44, perennial candidate in federal elections, says he will run as an Independent Liberal against Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield on June 25 — in whatever riding Stanfield chooses.

Kirk opposed the Tory chief in a by-election last Nov. 6, polling 1,089 votes to Stanfield's 15,380.

Trudeau is expected to remove Robichaud from the cabinet shortly and appoint him to the Senate. There is a New Brunswick vacancy in the upper house.

The new prime minister confirmed after a cabinet meeting there will be "additions and subtractions to the cabinet, but not in the next few days."

As he said previously, the major shuffle will come following the election, if the Liberals are still forming the government. He acknowledged again that his cabinet, sworn in with him, is only transitory.

ONE FACTOR

Reacting to criticism of the small western representation in the cabinet, Trudeau said regional considerations are only one of several factors involved in cabinet-making.

Only two of the 24 members of the cabinet are from the western provinces.

The prime minister also said that he has told his cabinet to stay in the capital for awhile rather than start election campaigning.

CO-CHAIRMEN NAMED

Earlier, it was announced that Manpower Minister Marchand, possibly Trudeau's most trusted adviser, and Senator John Nichol, have been named co-chairmen of the Liberal campaign.

Senator Nichol, 44-year-old Vancouver businessman, stepped down as president of the Liberal Federation of Canada at the April 4 convention, which selected Mr. Trudeau as leader. He was the chief convention planner.

While the behind-the-scenes planning went on, the election campaign for the public was still on a "phony war" basis, with cabinet ministers attending to government business in Ottawa. And the Liberal, Conservative and NDP leaders were not yet on the campaign trail.

IMAGE A FACTOR

Early indications are that the Conservative party has no intention of trying to change the solid, down-to-earth image of leader Robert Stanfield, 54, despite the swinging alternative that Trudeau presents to the public.

Postal Talks Deadlocked

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and postal union negotiators huddled separately but frequently Thursday in the wake of Wednesday's sudden break in contract negotiations.

Neither side would disclose any strategy and both stuck to the public position they have maintained through three months of private negotiations for a first contract.

Rick Otto, acting co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, which represents some 22,000 postal union members, said in an interview:

"The council is continuing to meet on an almost round-the-clock basis and will, at the appropriate time, make a further press release."

A council release last Sunday said postal negotiators would consider applying for appointment of a conciliator or a conciliation board if no signs of progress became evident at Wednesday's negotiations.

A government spokesman confirmed that a negotiating meeting scheduled for Thursday did not take place. He declined to say that negotiations had broken off, but indicated an announcement on the status of bargaining talks would be forthcoming.

Deacon Verdict in Fall By Canadian Catholics

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Roman Catholic bishops have put off until the fall their final decision on whether the ancient office of deacon should be restored in Canada.

Their counterparts in the United States voted Wednesday to restore the office which permits specially-trained married and single men to perform many of the functions of the priest. The chief exceptions are saying Mass and hearing confessions.

The Vatican council passed regulations last year restoring the deaconship but it is up to each country to decide whether it will allow them within its membership.

At a news conference Thursday, the bishops said questionnaires were sent out to 550 Canadians and 329 replies received. Polled were priests, religious men and women as well as others.

Of the 329 answers, 138 thought the chances of success for the deaconship were reasonable and another 81 thought they were very good.

The bishops said experts will be asked to assess the results of the questionnaires. Their findings and recommendations will be placed before a committee of bishops June 18.

A plenary meeting of the Canadian Catholic Conference then will make the final decision in the fall.

'Better Off Dead'

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP) — A 13-year-old boy kept alive by a machine three days after he was buried in a cave-in died in a hospital Thursday.

An autopsy is planned. The boy, Robert Snyder, suffered severe brain damage when he was buried Monday under 300 pounds of earth after he and two friends dug a tunnel that collapsed. The other youths escaped unharmed, but it took a half hour to free Robert. By then, lack of oxygen had damaged his brain. He never regained consciousness.

AIR PUMPED

While the oxygen machine pumped air into the boy's lungs in Palm Harbor Hospital, his father pleaded with hospital authorities to let Robert die.

"It would be so much better if he were allowed to die," Warren Snyder, 46, told reporters.

The boy's doctor, Dr. Lawrence Lewin, said even four minutes without oxygen would have caused brain damage. He said from a medical point of view the youngster never had a chance to recover consciousness.

The doctor said the lad's heart "simply stopped beating" Thursday while oxygen was being administered to him.

At Columbia

Crisis End Promised

NEW YORK (UPI) — A group of 115 Columbia University faculty members Thursday night asked rebellious students to surrender four buildings they have held for three days, and promised not to resume classes until the campus racial crisis is resolved.

Hundreds of students opposed to the takeover by a militant minority which accused the school's administration of racism earlier demanded that the university act to restore canceled classes and "end this circus."

ATHLETES OPPOSED

The rebel students also charged Columbia has aided the government in the Vietnam war effort.

One of two counter-rallies Thursday included 200 athletes who cheered and whistled as speakers described the demonstrations as "outrageous conduct" and "deplorable disruption" more appropriate to a "barbarian society."

"If it's a barbarian society, then it's the survival of the fittest and we're the fittest," a student athlete said.

Aim of the bureau is to channel volunteers to various institutions and organizations. The bureau is in Room 206D, 936 Balmoral Road, 386-9212.

Collector's Coins Stolen

A Cadboro Bay service station and a Rockland Avenue home were broken into overnight Wednesday.

Stolen from the home of John Urbin, 1018 Rockland, were an 1858 Napoleon III 20-franc coin worth $50, 35 silver dollars, $100 in smaller coins, two cameras and an electric razor. Entry was made through a side window.

About $7 in silver was stolen from a cash box at Cadboro Bay Texaco service station. Entry was made through an unlocked side window, police said.

Experts Say U.S. Riding for Fall

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

The United States has just completed its greatest productive quarter on record, but the experts say it is going dangerously fast and riding for a fall.

For the three months to March 31, the gross national production has increased $20,000,000,000 to $27,000,000,000, and company reports show big profit gains during the same period.

The U.S. is living at a higher standard than it can afford says William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board who fears the country is heading for either uncontrolled inflation or a serious depression.

The gross national production figures are the argument in favor of increased taxation to skim some of the spending cream off the milk.

Of some 50 important U.S. companies which in recent days have submitted their first quarter reports, 80 per cent are reporting higher profits, some of them three and four times the levels of the corresponding period of 1967.

Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York in its April survey says that if Congress doesn't take action quickly on taxes

Geology Thesis Boost to Mining

VANCOUVER (CP)—A report on the origin and evolution of the mountains of Western Canada was hailed Wednesday as a major contribution to the science of geology.

Delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy said the report, prepared by more than 20 Canadian scientists, will help in the search for new mineral deposits because it substantially narrows down the target areas.

The work claims the mountain ranges of British Columbia and the Yukon originated in the Shuswap region about 150,000,000 years ago, and culminated less than 50,000,000 years ago. The new, fiery ranges spread northeastward, pushing ahead cooler, brittle rocks that piled thrust slices which now are the Rocky Mountains.

It was previously thought mountain ranges were formed during a relatively restricted geological time-span of approximately 10,000,000 years.

Ontario Judgment Reserved In $450,000,000 Mine Suit

TORONTO (CP)—The biggest civil suit ever heard in Canada ended its trial in the Ontario Supreme Court Thursday.

At stake is the claim of Leitch Gold Mines Ltd. to the $2,000,000,000 orebody developed by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. of

New York as the Kidd Creek Mine.

Alternatively, Leitch and its exploration parent, Mastodon-Highland Bell Mines of Vancouver, are seeking $450,000,000 damages from Texas Gulf.

Logger Vote Result At Weekend

KELOWNA (CP)—Result of a vote this week among 4,000 striking southern Interior woodworkers will be known either Saturday or Monday, Bill Schumaker, president of the Kelowna local of the International Woodworkers of America, said Thursday.

The balloting is being conducted on a 60-cent hourly wage increase over three years proposed last week by union negotiator Jack Sherlock. Union negotiators have recommended rejection of the proposal to settle a strike that began Oct. 4.

Employers are expected to vote on the proposal next week.

Beef Price Holds

OTTAWA (CP)—Both chicken and egg prices may rise although egg prices will first dip in early May, says the Canada agriculture department's economics branch.

The May food outlook for other basic foods is:

Beef: With adequate supplies, little change in prices is expected.

Pork: Prices may rise moderately as slaughter supplies decline seasonally.

Turkey: Prices of broiler and medium weight turkeys may be up because of reduced marketings and a stronger demand.

Apples: With above-average supply from controlled atmosphere storage and strong demand, prices will be fair to rising.

Onions: Canadian-grown supplies are below average and will be supplemented by imports, but prices will move higher.

Potatoes: With sluggish movement and larger imports, prices will remain weak in the East but stronger in the West.

India's magnificent monument

World-Famous Taj Mahal Sinking Slowly Into River

AGRA, India (AP) — The magnificent Taj Mahal, the peerless monument to love which is India's major tourist attraction, may be sinking ever so slowly into the sacred Yamuna River.

Road Wide Open

TOKYO (LAT) — Japan left no doubts Thursday that it has come of automobile age. Less than an hour and a half after the official opening of the first sections of the Tokyo-Nagoya expressway, a 10-vehicle pileup brought traffic to a standstill for hours.

The 21-mile section from Tokyo to Atsugi, site of a U.S. naval air base, had to be closed for four hours while police cleaned up the wreckage of seven cars, two pickup trucks and a motorcycle. Two persons were seriously injured.

WATCHERS HURT

Curious motorists who got out to see what happened after a blowout caused the lead car to slow suddenly found themselves in hospital with serious injuries resulting from a 50-foot fall to the ground below. The centre dividing strip of the elevated highway was partially open but unfenced so that in the darkness four motorists and a newspaper photographer fell.

Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan's memorial to his second wife is in no immediate danger of crumbling, but some experts in the department of archeology say prompt remedial action is needed.

The Taj first developed cracks in portions of its massive underground foundation several years after its completion, about 1654.

An Englishman, Capt. Joseph Taylor, made repairs in 1810. Additional repairs were logged in 1874.

A recent check showed the tilt of the Taj's four minarets has increased, with one leaning nearly nine inches. Cracks in upper reaches of the huge marble dome are reported enlarging as well.

Whatever cracks there may be in the 300-year-old monument, it is still a work of art. Whether viewed at the break of dawn, in the glaring sun of mid-day or in the sheen of a full moon, the Taj lives up to every expectation of the tourist.

A good portion of the $33,600,000 in foreign exchange which India earned from tourists last year must be credited to the Taj.

Shah Jahan had the Taj built as a sepulchre for his second—and favorite—wife, Mumtaz Mahal, Exalted of the Palace. She bore 14 of the emperor's children, dying while giving birth to his eighth son, in 1630 while the shah was waging a battle campaign nearby.

The shah invited designs for the monument and finally selected one by Ustad Isa, a Persian.

The emperor brought in skilled craftsmen from France, Italy, Persia and Turkey, and threw 20,000 laborers into the construction. It took about 22 years. One Indian government publication estimates the original cost at $70,000,000.

Latest Cosmos Orbital Bomb?

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Thursday announced launching of a new Cosmos in terms that might mean it was the first test of an orbital bomb system since the United States said Russia seemed to be developing such a weapon.

It simultaneously announced another launching of an unmanned spaceship on a new type of orbit whose purpose was not explained.

Robert S. McNamara, then U.S. defence secretary, disclosed the suspicions about a Soviet orbital bomb system at a Washington press conference Nov. 2. He said it could become combat-ready in 1968.

LOW ORBIT

As described by McNamara, the system would consist of a nuclear warhead launched into a low orbit, from which it would be dropped on its target before the earth had been circled once. The feature of those Cosmos flights which caused them to be suspect was that no orbiting time was given, as for others in the series. This suggested they were brought down before completing one orbit.

At the same time it was disclosed Cosmos 217 was launched Wednesday. Its orbit was relatively high and irregular, unlike any other in the six-year-old Cosmos series.

NO EXPLANATION

There was no explanation. There has been widespread speculation Russia will soon attempt a new space spectacular, perhaps involving linkups of manned spaceships.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada signed Thursday an international treaty for the rescue and return of astronauts and objects launched into outer space.

The treaty, opened for signature by three depository countries, Britain, the United States and Russia, was officially signed on behalf of Canada by her ambassador in Washington and Moscow and the high commissioner in London.

Air Misses

Flyers Admit More

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of "near-miss" collision reports between airplanes is running four times greater than normal under a plan offering immunity to pilots who report close brushes, it was learned Thursday.

The Federal Aviation Administration said that it received 554 reports of near misses in the first 2½ months of 1968. Under the old reporting procedure, which made pilots liable to punishment in some cases, the FAA said the average annual near-miss collisions reported was 545.

Old Method

"The reports are running at a rate four times greater than last year," an FAA spokesman said.

The new reporting procedure started in January in response to criticism that the old reporting method led pilots and others to try to cover up close in-flight brushes between planes.

Out of the 554 near collision reports filed at March 15, 251 came from general aviation pilots. Airline pilots submitted 160. Military pilots 141, and air traffic controllers 2, the FAA said.

Near Airport

Of those, 339 occurred within airport area. The other 215 occurred while the planes were en route to their destinations, the FAA said.

The FAA said that 436 of reports filed in January and February broke down this way: 250 represented no hazard to either planes involved — there was no need for evasion action on the part of either pilot; 186 were classified as hazardous situations.

Of those, 117 occurred in airport areas and 69 were reported by planes en route to destinations.

Hawks Prolong Series As Hull, DeJordy Star

CHICAGO—Getting two goals from Bobby Hull, excellent goalkeeping from Denis DeJordy and an improved effort from every player in their lineup, Chicago Black Hawks prolonged their Stanley Cup semifinal against Montreal Canadiens on Thursday night by scoring a 2-1 victory before 16,666 fans.

Result left Canadiens with a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series between the first and fourth-place clubs in the National Hockey League's Eastern Division.

Fifth game is scheduled for Montreal on Sunday afternoon.

A far different club than the one which succumbed by scores of 9-2, 4-1 and 4-2 in the first three games, the Hawks skated all the way with Canadiens last night.

Their forwards, led by Wayne and Chico Maki, checked both ways. They came up with the puck from scrambles and had their persistent checking result in Montreal defensive errors which gave them several fine scoring chances.

Canadiens also had their chances in a game that could have gone either way but last night they couldn't take charge as they had in the first three games.

Montreal played without Lorne Worsley for all but the first nine minutes of the game. The veteran goalkeeper was injured when Hull scored the opening goal at 8:57.

Swooping around Terry Harper after a loose puck, Hull collided with Worsley just as he let his close-in shot go. Worsley spun around and fell to the ice in front of the goal.

SPRAINED NECK

Worsley was unconscious for several minutes and was carried off the ice on a stretcher. It appeared that he had collided with either a pipe or the crossbar and a post-game report said that he had suffered a sprained neck.

Whether the injury will keep him out of Sunday's game is not yet known but he is not believed to be seriously injured.

Worsley was replaced by Rogatien Vachon, who turned in a steady game and had no chance on the blistering 50-footer by Hull which broke the 1-1 tie in the seventh minute of the second period.

SLOWED BY PENALTIES

Canadiens drew four of the game's first five penalties and while their penalty-killers did an excellent job of stopping the Chicago power play, the penalties helped keep them from getting a sustained offence started.

They finally pulled even early in the third period, just after killing off a penalty to Henri Richard.

Richard got in on a rush just as he returned to the ice and got the puck to Gilles Tremblay, who shot a shot which hit a post and came directly out. Richard managed to get his stick on the puck and put it in the net before DeJordy could re-position himself.

THE TIDE TURNS

With Stan Mikita drawing a penalty less than two minutes later, it began to appear as if Canadiens were going to take charge.

They pressed hard on the power play and DeJordy came up with three great stops on Jean Beliveau before Hull, who played close to 40 minutes and was out in this moment of stress as a penalty-killer, suddenly turned the tide.

He got a through pass just inside the Montreal blue-line from Pat Stapleton, wound up and blasted the puck past Vachon, who only found time to throw up an arm.

BOTH WERE GOOD

Both defences were guilty of lapses in the sustained action which produced the most exciting game of the series and both goalkeepers came up with a number of brilliant saves.

DeJordy balked Ralph Backstrom three times when the speedy centre was in alone in addition to the key stops he made on Beliveau. At the other end, Vachon took goals away from Ken Warrman twice, got a dejected drive by Denis Hull and somehow kept a 25-year-old tight-end Randy Furch. Both have been playing in the Texas pro league.

NESTERENKO LOST

Hawks also suffered an injury. Lost to them, probably for the remainder of the series, is veteran-forward Eric Nesterenko, who suffered a separated shoulder.

Beliveau paid tribute to DeJordy after the game.

"He made the key saves on the good chances we had during the power plays," the Montreal captain said.

Montreal-coach Toe Blake said the Hawks were checking so tight that even when we got a man in the clear he was dragging a Chicago player along."

North Stars Go Ahead In Other Semi-Final

ST. LOUIS (CP) — Minnesota North Stars got four goals from the line of Bill Goldsworthy, Milan Marcetta and Dave Balon to defeat St. Louis Blues, 5-1, Thursday night and take a one game lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-finals.

Goldsworthy scored twice and Marcetta and Balon added one goal apiece to pace Minnesota to victory. Jean-Paul Parise scored the other goal for the North Stars, his first in 10 playoff games.

Veteran Dickie Moore spoiled Cesare Maniago's bid for his first shutout of the series at 4:53 of the second period.

PLAY SATURDAY

The North Stars now lead the series two games to one with the fourth game scheduled here Saturday night.

Maniago, backed by the superlative defensive work of Bob McCord and Mike McMahon, was brilliant in the wide-open game. He blocked 30 shots, compared to 16 by Glenn Hall for St. Louis.

Hall appeared nervous in front of a floundering defence as the North Stars built up a 3-0 lead in the first period and led, 4-1, at the end of 40 minutes.

Coach Wren Blair went with two forward lines in the first period for Minnesota, and had his defence playing well up.

MARCEITA STARTS IT

Marcetta tapped in Balon's rebound at 9:38 after Goldsworthy beat St. Louis defenceman Barclay Plager to the puck in the corner and passed it in front. Hall went down to block Balon's shot and was out of position when Marcetta put it into the open corner.

Goldsworthy made it 2-0 less than four minutes later when Balon stole the puck from Don McKenney in the Blues' zone. Goldsworthy let go a quick wrist shot as he streaked up the right wing boards to take the pass.

Balon, a temperamental player who openly criticizes his linemates for indifferent play, had his best period of the playoffs, figuring in two goals and killing penalties.

Connolly ended the scoring in the period on a two-on-one break, feeding a pass to Parise almost on top of Hall.

Standout Field to Compete In Sandown's Big Handicap

Spring thoroughbred racing at Sandown Park may be having more downs than ups but tomorrow will certainly be an "up" day if the weather remains dry.

Lined up for the 10th day of the scheduled 11-day meeting is what has to rate as the finest card in the 14-year history of the Sydney track.

It is topped by the field for the Vancouver Island Chamampionship, which offers a purse of $2,200, biggest at Sandown. Two supporting handicaps will also have outstanding fields and the supporting five races are expected to be full and contentious.

Nominations for the Vancouver Island Championship, to be run over six furlongs, were taken yesterday. And unless there is a change of heart by owners before entries are taken this morning, this will be the best field to ever run at Sandown.

Heading the list of nominations is Jeffaway, who was claimed for $8,000 at Santa Anita by the Small Oaks Stable, owned by Victorian Ed Popham and Terry Garner of Vancouver.

The four-year-old colt made it look like a bargain by winning for $15,000 in his first start for his new owners. He has been given top weight of 123 pounds and almost certainly will be a post-time favorite if he runs.

But there will be plenty of opposition from the likes of Feudal Lord and Imperial Silk, owned by Dave Diamond.

Feudal Lord is a five-year-old gelding who was claimed in California last year and won three races and $5,681 at Exhibition Park.

EXPENSIVE CLAIM

Imperial Silk, also a five-year-old gelding, was claimed for $15,000 at Santa Anita last year and while a disappointment at Exhibition Park after being moved north, has the credentials to be among the best on B.C. tracks this season.

He has won a division of the Ponoma Stakes and was beaten by no more than six lengths when he tackled the famed Buckpasser.

Also nominated for the big race are defending-champion Handsome Chief, the popular Sefton Park, Sleep Shade, Jubilarian, Teach Me, Bob Weinberg and Easel's Pride, winner of the Colonist Handicap on opening day.

Bob Weinberg won four, placed twice and showed twice in 11 starts at Exhibition Park last year to win $5,573. Jubilarian, a speedster, will be part of an entry with Jeffaway if both are entered.

Nominated for the sixth race are Reefwalk, Serenade In Red, Trusteen, Fiesta Tango, Linda Rullah, Never Charge, Littlebitof Sugar and Jimmy A-Go-Go.

The third handicap event will draw its starting field from Border Spy, Glencar, Gump's Trial, Ukiah, Short Circuit, Oratress, Lunk and Boyaggio.

But while strong fields seem assured for tomorrow, today's card will have only seven races, four of them over the "nursery course" distance of three and a half furlongs.

However, at least seven

runners are entered in each of today's races and it has been a fact that the short sprints have been easier for most fans to pick.

Today is ladies' day, all female patrons to be admitted to the grounds without charge.

Boxla Teams To Practice On Saturday

Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association is holding practices Saturday at Stevenson Park for the tyke division at 9:30 a.m., novices at 12:30 p.m. and peewees at 2:30 p.m.

There will be a Junior "B" practice Sunday at Hampton Park starting at 10 a.m.

A special meeting for the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association has been arranged for Monday in the McPherson lounge of Royal Athletic Park at 7:30 p.m. All interested parents are asked to attend.

Rollins Elected

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Al Rollins of Calgary, former Chicago and Toronto goalkeeper, has been elected governor of the Alberta Senior Hockey League.

Rookie Drivers Face First Test

Fred Best and Tony Mortel will get their first taste of racing super modified cars Saturday when the oval racing season opens at Western Speedway.

Best and Mortel, two of the top stock drivers at Western last year, will be facing Indianapolis-type sprint cars, which are returning to Victoria after a four-year layoff.

Best has taken over Ray Pottinger's familiar Nanaimo car while the 20-year-old Mortel has a brand new machine to break in.

Joining the rookies against the approximately 20 entries expected from Washington and Oregon are Roy Smith, who drove well last year in a brief appearance, driving the Van-treight Special in place of his retired brother, Al, and veteran Bob Simpson in a Chev-powered sprint car.

Portland's Gordy Youngstrom, who has been competing in sprint cars for over 20 years, is expected to be the man to beat. Youngstrom will be driving an Offenhauser roadster—the same type of car which dominated the field at Indianapolis Speedway for many years.

SEATTLE STARS

Al Keller and Mike Morrissey from Seattle are also strong contenders in their 425 cu. in. Buick sprint car and 396 cu. in. Oldsmobile roadster, respectively.

Ralph Monhay of Vancouver is expected to compete in the super modified which is owned by Canadian-American Motor Racing Association president, Bob Morgan, of Seattle.

Time trials are at 7:30 p.m. If it rains the meet will be postponed until 1:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Eskimos Sign Two Players

EDMONTON (UPI)—Two former team mates at Langston University in Oklahoma have been signed by Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League. They are defensive end and tackle Marcellus Wade, 26, and 25-year-old tight-end Randy Furch. Both have been playing in the Texas pro league.

Division Plans Delayed

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League decided for the sake of harmony Thursday to play ball with the National League on mapping 1969 baseball schedules. It delayed action on setting up a planned two-divisional slate for its 12-team expansion program.

CHANGE FORCED
"We set today's (Thursday's) meeting as long ago as last February in order to possibly adopt a divisional, six-club scheduling plan for 1969," said Joe Cronin, American League president, "but last week the National League decided to expand to 12 teams in 1969 if it were feasible. We now must wait for the National's firming up of its 1969 expansion program before we can decide on our playing schedule. It would be difficult if we went ahead with a divisional setup not knowing what, or even if, two new teams will be added."

NEXT MONTH
Lou Carroll, National League attorney who sat in on the meeting of American League club owners Thursday, said the league will meet probably in mid-May, at which time the two new franchises for 1969 may be voted on.

At last Friday's NL meeting in Chicago, franchise applications came from San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal, Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Cronin said "we are cognizant of the problems between the two leagues and we will meet with the National League before May to discuss them."

Cronin also said Kansas City and Seattle formally were certified at Thursday's meeting as the American League's new expansion teams.

Player Cards Four-Under 66 But Trio Within One Stroke

DALLAS—Gary Player of South Africa fired a four-under-par 66 Thursday in windy conditions at the 7,086-yard Preston Trail course to take the first-round lead in the $100,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

Playing in wind that gusted regularly to 21 miles an hour and later to 30 mph, Player said that he was putting "fantastically" as he recorded "my best round this year."

The dark-skinned Player finished one stroke ahead of fellow South African Harold Henning and Texans Miller Barber and Jack Montgomery, who were also having good luck with their putts.

Barber sank 18, 35 and 30-foot putts for birdsies and was down in par or less on every hole. He hit 17 greens in regulation figures and needed only 32 putts.

Hole-in-One Scored By Vollmer
PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla.—Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver scored a hole-in-one on the 185-yard 16th hole on Thursday to feature first-round play in the 144-hole Professional Golfers Association approved player-training school tournament.

The youthful Canadian wound up in an eight-player group with 73s, five strokes behind Larry O'Hearn of Dartmouth, N.S., and Oldhaman Bob Dickson, who won both the U.S. and British amateur championships last year.

Eighty-two players started the tournament and the 15 low scorers will be certified as eligible to join the PGA tour this year.

starting the ninth inning despite the three-hit pitching of Gary Peters, the Sox, who had 12 hits, seemed finally set to break loose when they loaded the bases with no one out.

Coming up was the heart of their batting order—Pete Ward, Tommy Davis and Russ Snyder. But righthander Al Worthington, who had relieved starter Jim Perry in the sixth inning, just hitched up his belt and struck out the three long-ball threats.

It was considerably different for the other Chicago team in the only other game scheduled yesterday.

The Cubs, who were trailing in the National League with a 4-7 showing, improved their standing behind the pitching of Canadian righthander Ferguson Jenkins and the hitting of third-baseman Ron Santo.

IN TOP FORM
Jenkins pitched a seven-hitter and went the distance for the third time in four starts for a 3-0 record in beating Atlanta Braves, 5-2, while Santo drove in three runs with his third and fourth homers of the season.

Hank Aaron had three hits, including a triple, and Felipe Alou and Bob Tillman hit home runs but Jenkins was struck out seven Braves and walked only one.

His base on balls to Sandy Valdespino in the sixth inning was his first of the season.

Junior World Golf Championship Planned by San Diego in August

SAN DIEGO — San Diego will play host to a four-day Junior World Golf Championship tournament Aug. 26-30, with most of the play at Torrey Pines Golf Club.

EXPECT 500
The San Diego County Junior Golf Association, originator and sponsor of the annual tournament, expects a field of 500 players.

"We are pleased to announce the inaugural Junior World tournament. We know it will be one of the finest junior golf events anywhere," John W. Brown, JGA president, said.

The sponsoring JGA will invite both boys and girls in four age groups from throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, and from about 49 other nations. The groups are: 15-17, 13-14, 11-12 and 10-and-under.

USE FIVE COURSES
Five local courses, including both North and South Torrey Pines, will be used according to Mrs. Smith, the Junior World tournament director. The other courses are the par-three Palma Course at Stardust Country Club and Colina Park and Presidio Hills, both pitch-and-putt layouts.

"We don't know how much response we will have this year from foreign nations, but we do expect entries from Canada and Mexico at the very least," the JGA president said.

CITY TO HELP
He said the City of San Diego is helping financially in promotion of the tournament, with funds from hotel-motel room tax. Tournament costs will be about $16,000, including those for promotion.

Tournament plan calls for 15-17 boys and girls and 13-14 boys to play 72 holes, all at Torrey Pines. The 13-14 girls will play their final 18 at Torrey Pines, but their first 54 holes at Palma.

The two lower age groups, 11-12 and 10-and-under, will play only 54 holes, finishing Thursday, Aug. 19, at the Colina Park and Presidio Hills courses, respectively.

Following the first two days of play, all players will take Wednesday, Aug. 28, off, for a tour of the San Diego area.

Due to the expected flood of entries, the two top age groups will be limited in number of entries and of golfing ability, Mrs. Smith said.

Entry limitations will be:

boys 15-17—150; boys 13-14—90; girls 15-17—60 and girls 13-14—40.

These fields will be "cut" at the end of 54 holes so that all divisions can play at Torrey Pines in the championship round, Friday, Aug. 30. There will be about 95 finalists.

The average-score qualifications for entering are: boys 15-17—85; boys 13-14—90; girls 15-17—95 and girls 13-14—105.

Trophies will be awarded to the five low scorers in each division. All participants will receive a "Golfland USA" golf cap, a plaque, and a sticker for his or her golf bag, and Golf Digest magazine is donating four perpetual trophies and has promised to co-operate additionally with the JGA by publicizing the tournament with special articles in advance, and tournament results afterward.

Montreal Optimistic About Major Baseball

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerry Snyder, vice-president of the Montreal executive committee, says he is optimistic Montreal will be awarded a baseball franchise by the National League.

"All the requirements for the granting of the league's two new franchises can be met completely by Montreal," he said in an interview. These included the availability of a stadium and the financial standing of the projected team's owners.

He said he did not think Expo 67's Autostade, good as it is, was ideal for baseball, but it was better than those in Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth.

He Removed Patrons' Beer

A man who said he can't face life without a drink pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance at a downtown beer parlor Wednesday night and was fined $25 in central magistrate's court Thursday.

William Addison of Nanaimo was arrested after he went from table to table removing beer and cigarettes belonging to other patrons. When a waiter repeatedly asked him to leave he used obscene language.

The accused told court he had come to Victoria looking for a job. He also said that he had once tried Alcoholics Anonymous but was ashamed to go back.

Magistrate William Ostler told the man he could not expect to cure himself without help.

"If you go back to AA determined to help yourself, I'm sure they'll do their best to help you," he said.

A Vancouver man was fined $50 for driving while his right to obtain a driver's licence was suspended.

Court was told Martin Reeve, 21, could not obtain a licence because of a physical disability.

Patricia Ruby French, 1454 Begbie, was fined $40 for careless driving and $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. Others fined for careless driving were: Thomas Neil McCall, 1731 Denman, $50; Eraldo Sartori, 316 Kamloops, $35; Dale Wilson, 4145 Hawkes, $35; James Michael Witter, 5343 Alderly, $35.

Board Pay Raised

Members of the capital regional board raised their stipend on Wednesday.

In future the board chairman, at present Mayor Hugh Curtis of Saanich, will get an annual honorarium of $500 instead of $300, with commissioners receiving $25 instead of $15 for each regular meeting they attend.

Meetings are held once a month, or at the call of the chair.

Nothing is paid for attendance at committee meetings, although a mileage allowance is made. The bylaw passed Wednesday without discussion.

The secretary-treasurer of the regional district William Long, said the increase brought the capital district board in line with others in British Columbia.

Sale Pact Pleases Thetis Association

Members of the Thetis Park Nature Sanctuary Association are happy with the agreement to sell the recreation area to the regional board of the capital district, president R. H. Matthews said Thursday.

But, he added, he hoped the changeover would not change the association's status. It had a deep interest in about 400 acres of the park where it was making improvements.

Among other things, Mr. Matthews said, the association was introducing plants indigenous to the district but not found in the park.

The association had about 500 members, the president said. About 30 of them joined as a result of recent publicity given Thetis Lake Park.

On a recent Sunday there were more than 200 people out for a nature ramble.

City council Thursday gave the association permission to place a lookout marker on the summit of Seymour Hill. The association was thanked for undertaking the project.

Finlayson
Workbee
On Weekend

Rehabilitation of the Mount Finlayson trail will be the object of an exercise this weekend which will see the South Vancouver Island Rangers and the Outdoor Club of Victoria pooling their labor resources.

President of the outdoor club, parks administrator H. W. Warren, invited the public Thursday to help in the good work.

He urged workers to bring a lunch and a saw, mattock or pruning shears with them. Chain saws are particularly needed.

A trail has been marked through the logged slash on the north side of the mountain and the object will be to open it up and join it to one originally cut in 1954 by the Rangers.

Bees Buzz
Customers

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The post office was buzzing during the weekend when thousands of honey bees flew from two broken boxes and landed on shelves, mail and customers. Officials said most of the bees were recaptured.

Esquimalt Boosts Mill Rate, Council Salaries

Esquimalt's mayor and aldermen voted themselves a pay raise as they set the 1968 budget with a two-mill increase this week.

At the end of budget discussions it was announced Thursday the 1968 budget will be up $48,000 from 1967.

Final rate was struck at 30.6 mills, which will mean an additional $7 in taxes on a $22,000 home, $2 on a $15,000 home, and $4 less on a $8,500 home.

PAY RAISES

Mayor Ray Bryant will receive $4,200 a year, up from $3,600, while the six aldermen will get an additional $300 a year to $1,500.

Mayor Bryant said Esquimalt, in common with other smaller municipalities, took the major brunt of the blow in increased welfare costs, while getting the minimal benefit from increased per capita grants.

The $105,000 to go to social allowances from Esquimalt includes $3,000 more than originally computed. There was no explanation of the additional $3 per cent.

LAST YEAR

The figure compares with $38,000 spent last year. Per-capita grants of $38.475 included an increase of $78,000. "This picture is likely to be grimmer next year," warned Mayor Bryant, "especially if there is an increase in welfare rates."

He said council is determined to maintain the present high level of services in Esquimalt.

COSTS MONEY

"People moving into the area can be assured that we will keep this level, but of course it does cost money," he said.

Highlights of the 1968 budget include boulevard improvement and tree planting at a cost of $66,000. Another $63,000 has been set aside for parks and playground operation and maintenance.

Lampson Street will be improved from Esquimalt to Old Esquimalt Road in readiness for its eventual linking with the new Tillamook-Craigflower Road arterial highway intersection.

FIRST PHASE

Also included in this year's budget is the first phase of the Macaulay Point outfall, which is Esquimalt's portion of the regional district's sewer program.

Increase in wages as a result of new collective agreements amounted to $54,000, an amount which itself is in excess of the two-mill increase. Mayor Bryant pointed out in Esquimalt one mill equals $34,000 for budget purposes.

Teachers in Keystone Position, Forum Told

School Can Change Society's Problems

By BILL STAVDAL

What's school for?
"For learning," said B.C.'s assistant schools superintendent John Meredith on Thursday.

"For living," retorted Dr. Vance Peavy, a professor of education at the University of Victoria.

The forum, titled Education: utilization of human resources, drew about 150 invited citizens. They later met speakers in small discussion groups.

The two crossed philosophical swords at an evening conference on education at Belmont senior high school in Colwood. They were among six speakers at the event, sponsored by the Sooke school board.

* * *

"The fundamental task of the school is to promote learning," said Mr. Meredith, the department of education's assistant superintendent in charge of instruction.

"It is not a custodial agency. It is not a therapeutic agency."

Mr. Meredith said that the school has no role in trying to cope with outside influences which have shaped a child before he enters the classroom.

There is a need to define roles in the education system so people know what they are supposed to be doing, Mr. Meredith added.

Dr. Peavy declared: "I don't see school as a place where children and adults go just to learn."

"I see school as a place where people come to live." Children work, play, eat and communicate at school, he said.

Another speaker was Victor Belknap, deputy superintendent of child welfare for B.C.

Teachers are in "a keystone position" in society, said Mr. Belknap.

"All the ills and all the problems we face can be changed by education," he said.

"We must prepare our children for tomorrow's society but nobody knows what that society will be," he said.

"It's a frightening prospect for teachers."

Dr. J. S. Bland, co-ordinator of services for the mentally retarded, appealed for treatment of low IQ people as individuals.

* * *

"The potential of those people we consider mentally retarded is far greater than we have thought," he said.

No-Baby Reward Urged for Girls

The government should reward girls for avoiding pregnancy and pay people for staying healthy, medical health officer Dr. Thomas Bailey told Thursday's education forum at Belmont high school.

Dr. Bailey, deputy medical health officer for Greater Victoria, argued that positive measures are needed for public health.

"The government or somebody should pay you to have a checkup," he said. "It will pay the government to have you healthy and contributing taxes."

"There should be a bonus to people for not getting sick." And he declared: "The government should be bold and pay unmarried girls a bonus for not having babies."

Dr. Bailey also advocated compulsory exercise and control of fatty foods to reduce heart disease.

"All this might lead to a positive enjoyment of health," he said.

Council Kills Raise

By A. H. MURPHY

A move to raise alderman's indemnity from $2,500 a year to $3,000 was overwhelmingly defeated Thursday at a meeting of city council.

The motion was introduced by Ald. Percy Frampton and seconded by Ald. Robert Baird, and they were the only two who voted for it.

Ald. Lloyd Clarkson voted against after speaking in favor of the increase, and Mayor Hugh Stephen warned that he would vote against in the event of a deadlock.

LONG HOURS

Knowing the hours the aldermen put in at civic work, said Ald. Frampton, he believed that the taxpayers would support raising the stipend, which is made up of $1,667 indemnity and $833 expense allowance.

"Anyone who does a good job should be paid for his work, although I do not believe an alderman should receive enough so that he could retire from his job and become a sort of professional alderman," Ald. Frampton said.

NOT FOR MONEY

Ald. Cecil Parrott said that when he came on city council, it was not for money.

"I came to do a good job for the city of Victoria," he said.

Ald. Baird suggested that if Ald. Parrott did not want his salary he should refuse it. It could then be divided up among the other aldermen, which would provide the increase without further burdening the taxpayers.

Canadian Customs Baffle

Czechoslovakians don't understand Canadian customs but are willing to go along with Canadian culture, Miroslav Zemla, ambassador of Czechoslovak Socialist Republic to Canada said Thursday in Victoria. Mr. Zemla and his wife are staying at Empress. He said his country is ore-hungry and is ready to supply mining machinery and transportation devices necessary to transport ore from Canada in negotiable condition to make it profitable. He plans to speak with B.C. cabinet ministers today and Saturday.—(Jim Ryan)

Bryant Wants Pollution Advice

Doctors Should Speak Up

Mayor Ray Bryant of Esquimalt called on Victoria's doctors Thursday to clarify ambiguities about the relationship of polluted water to infectious hepatitis.

Reader Charges

Trailer Mass Threat to Sea

By NANCY BROWN

A 200-site trailer park planned for Pedder Bay could lead to outbreaks of hepatitis unless oyster beds in the area are closed to the public, according to Colwood's regional representative and pollution fighter William Reader.

"There are prime salmon fishing grounds in that area, and I don't know how the discharge of septic tank effluent would affect the fish," he said.

TREATMENT FIRST

"It has been proved in the United States that clams and oysters within four miles of outfalls can carry the hepatitis bug, and I would think that the oyster beds in that area would have to be banned for the reason," he said.

"It's time Victoria's medical profession spoke out on this subject," he said in an interview. "Either they should support Dr. Whitbread or otherwise clarify the situation."

(Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, has advised the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health that most beaches in the area should be placarded because they are polluted.)

Mayor Bryant said: "It seems to me that Dr. Whitbread has been challenged and I think the view of the medical profession should be heard at this time. We all look on the medical profession with respect, and they should polarize the issue at this time."

* * *

"Those of us who are in the civic field are entitled to receive some support and advice from doctors on this question," said the mayor.

Another call for an investigation came from Geoffrey Edgelow, a former president of the Portage Inlet and Gorge Waterway Society and an ex-Victoria alderman.

"I cannot believe there is pollution at a time of spring tides and heavy runoff," he said. "There is more to the placarding than meets the eye. Someone is using it for a political thing, or something else."

* * *

Mr. Edgelow wants a provincial investigation because the Gorge and Portage Inlet involve three municipal areas — the city, Esquimalt and Saanich — as well as unorganized territory. It is understood the Victoria Medical Society has established an environmental health committee to investigate such issues as water pollution. The members have not had time to tackle the assignment, however.

Condition Critical, Meeting Told

Only Bankers, Creditors Keep St. Joseph's Open

By JOHN MATTERS

St. Joseph's Hospital would have to close its doors if it didn't have generous bankers and creditors, the hospital's annual meeting was told Thursday.

Staff's Fears Eased

The staff of St. Joseph's Hospital was asked Thursday not to feel uneasy and apprehensive as a result of reports about the institution's financial difficulties.

The plea came from Fred Norris, chairman of the hospital's board of management, who was at home ill. It was brought to the annual meeting by Michael Griffin, deputy chairman.

"He wanted to say we have a good hospital and we will lead the field," said Mr. Griffin. "He is extremely proud of the job you are doing, that we have a good institution and will be here for a long time to come."

"Many of us are working in very difficult and sometimes frustrating situations," said Dr. J. A. D. Thompson, medical director. "I would like to suggest... we do the best we can with what we have to work with, and hope conditions will improve."

"Our financial situation is critical," reported R. J. Nation, chairman of the hospital board's finance committee, after he disclosed there was an operating deficit of $29,000 last year.

This compares with a deficit of $60,607 during 1966, a figure which also excluded depreciation of close to $200,000.

NO ALTERNATIVE

"We have no alternative but to reduce expenditures to approved budget level, and in doing so reduce the standards which we have until now felt it only reasonable to maintain," added Mr. Nation.

The hospital's financial strains and the pressures it is facing for more patient care were the themes of most of the reports presented during the 90-minute meeting.

Mr. Nation described the contracts which the hospital makes with British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service, the government agency that distributes taxpayers' money for the treatment of sick people.

SIMPLE FACT

"During 1967, and for a period of several years, the simple fact is that the hospital has incurred expenses that the Hospital Insurance Service has not met."

"What are we going to do about this situation? The answer to this question is quite straightforward: We either decrease our expenses or increase our revenue."

Mr. Nation said the hospital administration felt most areas of the hospital now are operating at minimum cost. However, with the problem of increasing revenue there was one source — BCHIS.

LACK OF BEDS

Dr. Embert Van Tilburg, executive director, reported that 45 per cent of the patients admitted last year were emergencies.

"This is attributable to the hospital's inability to admit many as urgent cases through lack of beds," he said.

"The limitations imposed on us are the greatest threat to the immediate and ultimate success of the hospital's endeavors. They should be seen as clear and grave danger to the maintenance of high standards of health care for the people of Victoria."

EXCELLENT WORK

Despite all those problems, said Dr. Van Tilburg, the staff performed excellent work last year, treating 13,875 patients, 285 more than were admitted in 1966.

Dr. G. A. May, president of the hospital's medical staff, reiterated a resolution, adopted earlier this week by fellow doctors, condemning the cutbacks made necessary by provincial financial policies.

"Having passed this motion, let me quickly add that the medical staff is firmly behind the administration and the board of management in their unrelenting efforts to secure the facilities and personnel necessary to provide the best in medical care for our patients," he said.

Tag Days Set For Children

Victoria branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association will hold tag days today and Saturday to raise money for the summer camp for diabetic children. Volunteer help is needed, say officials.

Esquimalt-Saanich Grits Must Nominate Again

British Columbia Liberal Association directors Thursday upset the nomination of James Gort as the candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich riding.

Following a meeting in Vancouver, president Lawrence Jolivet said another nominating convention was ordered to be held as soon as possible.

Mr. Gort, a taxi operator, was nominated at a stormy meeting Monday night, during which about half of the 110 people present walked out.

Leonard Skelton, second vice-president of the party's Esquimalt-Saanich riding association, said the Vancouver decision will do local Liberals "a lot of harm."

"The provincial people, who have never taken any interest in federal riding business, suddenly have got up on their high horse and have black-balled our candidate," added Mr. Skelton.

"This is nothing more than powerhouse play against a working man... an ordinary person who is very interested in the affairs of this country."

Mr. Jolivet said the B.C. association acted following a complaint from local Liberals that Monday's meeting did not abide by the party's constitution.

The Liberal president said the executive wanted it clearly understood that, in ordering that a new nominating meeting be held, they were in no way "questioning the suitability of Mr. Gort as a candidate."

"The executive feels this unfortunate situation can be completely cleared up by another nominating meeting," said Mr. Jolivet, adding that if Mr. Gort is renominated he will have the full support of the party.

Mr. Gort was returning to Victoria from the session with the Liberal executive and could not be reached for comment.

Mr. Skelton said Thursday night that one of the names signed to the local constitution is that of J. B. Cumming, whose name also was on a note protesting the lack of 60-day notice.

The second vice-president said the note, which also has the names of F. H. Boulter and R. B. Hutchison on it, is without signature or return addresses. The names are typed on the sheet.

"It is a most childish letter, even using legal phraseology," added Mr. Skelton.

Vote Fever Rises In Victoria Area

Preparations for the June 25 general election started accelerating quickly in the Victoria area Thursday.

Eric Charman, the Progressive Conservative candidate for Victoria, announced his campaign headquarters will open Tuesday in the former Empress Motors building at Fort and Quadra.

Earlier in the day, he said he shook at least 300 hands in a tour which ranged from beauty parlors to supermarkets and printing plants.

On Thursday night, Esquimalt-Saanich Social Crediters elected H. F. Williams president of their federal constituency association and decided to hold a nominating convention at 8 p.m. May 10 in Lake Hill Women's Institute hall to select their candidate.

Dave Wilson, the returning officer for Victoria, moved into his offices at 1321 Quadra. Both telephone lines were busy most of the day with inquiries from people who wanted to work as enumerators.

"From the calls I'm getting, there seem to be a lot of people looking for jobs," he said.

'Want to Be Hero?'

Fugitive Gives Up To Housewife, Son

By DON GAIN

A Milne's Landing housewife took it very calmly Thursday afternoon when a fugitive from William Head minimum security prison came to her home to give himself up.

The man was Norman Kenneth Cottrell, 25, the second of two men who escaped 11 days ago. Thursday night he was being held in custody by Sooke RCMP awaiting transfer to Victoria city jail. He is expected to appear in Central Magistrate's Court this morning.

"My son was coming home from school and as he entered our yard, a man walked up to him and said, 'Do you want to be a hero?'" Mrs. Peter Groot, 4550 Dixon Road, told the Colonist Thursday afternoon.

BROUGHT HOME

Then the man told her son, Andrew, 17, that he was "the escaped convict" and asked if he would like to turn him in.

fugitive into the house and Mrs. Groot gave him permission to phone the RCMP.

"But our party line was busy," said Mrs. Groot, "so I asked him if he was hungry. He said he was because all he'd had to eat was buns. So I made him some bacon and eggs."

Mrs. Groot said she wasn't frightened.

"But we got to thinking later about what might have happened. But there was no danger. He was quite friendly and mild, not abusive at all."

Mrs. Groot said the short, blonde man was dressed in dungarees and a cotton shirt. "He went in and washed, and when he came out with his hair combed, he didn't look bad at all. His running shoes were torn, but otherwise he looked pretty good."

"He told me he was taking an electronics course. The whole thing was a surprise."

through to Sooke RCMP while her guest was eating.

The Groots live about a mile from the store on the Sooke highway at Milne's Landing. Dixon Road runs off Sooke River Road about four miles from Sooke potholes. Mr. Groot is employed by Sooke Forest Products.

BOUGHT FOOD

Cottrell told Sooke RCMP that he had spent his free time in the Sooke Hills and finally got hungry. He had taken food with him when he escaped and bought some more food from Boy Scouts hiking in the area last week. He told police he had lost about 30 pounds.

He had already served 18 months of a two-year term on a conviction for criminal negligence causing bodily harm.

The other fugitive, Delmar Lyman Ferguson, 25, serving the second year of a three-year sentence for manslaughter, surrendered in Kelowna about a week ago.

Solder Jewelry Like Silver Moonbeams

Brian Jaundrew at work

By EILEEN LEAROLD
Take an E flat clarinet, a gold medal from Tokyo, some tin and solder, a black turtle neck sweater and there you have a quick mock-up of a young man about town who is going places — Brian Jaundrew.

Definitely of the mod and rock generation being just 22 years of age, Brian looks like an artist. And oddly enough that is exactly what he is. He seems to possess a genuine originality, and he expresses it in several channels.

He invented and makes jewelry in quite a new art-form. He plays a musical instrument that is rarely used even in symphonies. And he has a gold medal won in a world competition for graphics in Japan that he did not even know he had won at the time.

If you want to find Brian Jaundrew you may need running shoes.

You might find him in some nightclub in Vaidy's Piggling Band Jug Band playing that rare E flat clarinet, he might be at home teaching his two-year-old daughter how to twist, but you'll most likely find him in the Village Fair, Bastion Square where he works in a romantic little niche he wryly calls Sebastian's Vault.

In the Vault he will be seen beyond the iron grillwork with a small blowtorch, making jewelry that looks a little like silver moonbeams.

Using no moulds, but working free form, using solder wire and tin, he painstakingly turns out "silver" necklaces, bracelets, tiaras, neck-collars and sculpture that looks particularly mobile and fluid. The work has to be done with great care because if overheated, solder runs like heated mercury.

The end result of this fine labor is a network of design, like lace, like geometrical mazes, or like solid bubbles. It is feminine and very dramatic, vaguely reminiscent of the heavy jewelry of early Egypt.

No two pieces are exactly alike.

Brian only started his jewelry design about three months ago. Working at a drafting job at the time, he began doodling designs and his thoughts turned to metals and shapes. Just for fun he made his wife, Peggy, a necklace which was so admired he made another one for one of her friends. Soon he was swamped with orders, gave up drafting and took over the Vault.

An additional charm of Brian's work is that it can be ordered to suit the individual, and one can watch him in the process of making it. When the piece is cooled, Brian polishes and lacquers it. He states the pieces will bend "and take a lot of abuse" without being damaged.

"Solder jewelry can be worn on white, or against the skin, and will not mark."

A lot of his work is bought by men. Mainly pendants strung on leather or chains or silver braid, but also some bizarre armbands and rings.

Brian has lived most of his life in Victoria and took his only art training at Victoria High from Mrs. Dorothy Cameron, a woman he cannot praise enough.

"If you were interested in art, she would just let you go to it and see you had all the help and materials you needed."

It was Mrs. Cameron who entered Brian's woodblock print in a world art exhibition in Japan in 1964 without telling him. His first prize win and medal were announced at school graduation and Brian reports he was "literally, stunned."

Long before his interest in art, the versatile Mr. Jaundrew was blowing a clarinet.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I will try to make a long story short and get right to the point. I am going with a boy I am terribly fond of. Ken is fond of me, too. My mother's attitude toward Ken was always cool. It was obvious she disliked him.

About three weeks ago she said, "I hope you are not planning to marry Ken." When I replied, "As a matter of fact I am," she turned white and blurted out, "You can't, he is your first cousin." My mother then told me about her youngest sister who had died giving birth to an out-of-wedlock child. I had never heard a word about this sister.

If you still want to be whole story is so bizarre I am wondering if my mother made it up. She insists there is no way of checking as nobody knew of it but her.

The thing that bothers me is that Ken looks enough like me that people have asked if he is my brother. Also, he is adopted. I am a nervous wreck with worry. Can you give me some advice that will settle me down?—NIGHT-MARE GIRL

Women Cops For Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—This modern Moslem capital, a model of Asian women's emancipation, saw 300 gleefully uniformed girls take over as traffic-cops. Offending drivers and jaywalkers got tickets at about the same rate as when the usually unshaven and mustachioed policemen were in charge. The police followed the air force lead in recruiting women.

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

It's a fashion of the times to designate a week when people are expected to patronize a certain product or organization. There's salad week—the time to live on greens—dairy week when you stuff with cottage cheese and lather butter on everything. And so it goes both for products and organizations.

And now Mayor Hugh Stephen has named April 27 to May 4 Operatic week in Victoria. Why? So everyone can go to see and hear Brigadoon which opens on the 30th at the McPherson and plays through the rest of the week.

The Victoria Operatic Society have been holding rehearsals for weeks and weeks and are in pretty fine shape now.

His Honor the Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Pearkes and His Worship and Mrs. Hugh Stephen, all patrons of the show, will attend the gala opening on Wednesday evening and the sherry party following the performance.

Other patrons are Dean Brian and Mrs. Whitlow, Alderman and Mrs. Percy Frampton, Reeve and Mrs. Ray Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. H. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Elworthy, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. K. English, Mr. and Mrs. H. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hind, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mayne, Mr. and Mrs. G. McCall, Mr. and Mrs. T. McCall, Mrs. A. Mullen, Miss L. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. George, Mr. and Mrs. B. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Sinnott.

Treat in Store

Brigadoon opened on Broadway 21 years ago and was an immediate hit. And hasn't lost any of its draw through the years.

The great songs, Down on McConnachy Square, Waiting for My Jeanie and Brigadoon ring out with the same old appeal.

This musical was Lerner and Lowe's first big hit even though they had been producing since the late 30's.

Producing the musical is Dennis Glew and Cliff Clark has the big job of directing. Well known singer Ruth Champion takes the leading feminine role as Fiona and Barry Grimshaw is cast in his first lead role as Tommy. Ian McIntyre portrays Jeff.

Victoria University public relations officer Dave Dunsmuir sings as Mr. Lundy and Nanaimo actress Barbara Despres makes a very adequate Meg.

Others in the cast are Roy Blevins as Charlie, young dancer-actor Danny Costain as Harry Beaton, Bill Broadhead takes on the part of Archie Beaton and Ted Gaskell is Angus. Frank Brawn is in a good supporting role.

The chorus cast numbers nearly 40. The evening shows on the four performances start at 8 and the Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

To Represent Victoria

Margaret Vickers, Miss Victoria, is off to Palm Springs today. She will represent Victoria in the Palm Springs Desert Circus Parade.

There is a treat in store next week for art lovers—the Ronald Jackson Art Exhibition.

Ronald Jackson, the well-known artist and his wife will be here for the three day show which is being held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

On the opening day, Wednesday, May 1 the time is from 2:30 to 10 p.m. On May 2 and 3 and it will open at 10 in the morning and be open all day and evening until 10.

Alexander Harrison, art dealer of Vancouver is putting on the showing which includes an outstanding selection of the Canadian artist's recent paintings.

Ronald Jackson is no stranger to Victoria. He went to University School here and was also a resident for many years.

The artist is a graduate of the Slade School of the University of London and also studied at the Grand Chaumiere in Paris.

He received the Duveen Award for the Marine Painting in London and has been commissioned to paint for the Governments of the United Kingdom, Canada and British Columbia.

Ronald Jackson has also painted in 27 different countries and on all continents with the exception of Australia.

Closest to his heart and to his palette are the waterfront, the interior of British Columbia and the waterfowl of Canada.

London

Several Victorians were among recent visitors signing the book at British Columbia House in London. They are Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lashmar, Miss Patricia G. West, William Montague, and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Savage. Also signing the book was Miss Eileen Morrissey of Duncan.

It's all part of the fun for the cast of Brigadoon to do a little rehearsing in the mall at Mayfair. Here members of chorus pose for photographer

Man's Long Leap Ends in Commons

LONDON (AP) — An unidentified young man leaped 30 feet into the House of Commons Thursday night from the public gallery as members of Parliament debated a rent bill.

He yelled "you bastards" as he vaulted over the railing.

He landed on his feet with a crash, a few feet from Parliament's startled sergeant-at-arms and collapsed on the floor.

Attendees rushed forward and escorted him out of the chamber. He did not appear to be seriously hurt.

There was no immediate indication of why he jumped. The House had spent much of the evening discussing the dismissal of officials from an airplane engine company and the rent bill, and not controversial issues such as the recent racial discrimination bill.

Rose Bowl, Medallion Today's Peak

Festival's First Week Closes

By BERT BINNY

As far as actual competition is concerned the first week of the 1968 Greater Victoria Music Festival is just about finished. The emblem of supremacy in piano is the City of Victoria Medallion: in the vocal division it is the B.C. Hydro Rose Bowl. Winners of these will be decided this evening at the Festival Highlights Concert at the McPherson Playhouse.

Curtain time is 8:00 p.m. with the Rose Bowl contest in the first half of the program and the Medallion after the intermission.

HIGH SCORE

Pianist Camille Inkman, 17 years old and a student with Robin Wood, came through again Thursday night in top style when she was awarded 95 points for her concert group.

Over the past four days Miss Inkman has become quiet an attraction. Thursday night more than one listener was seen scurrying across Balmoral Street from Fellowship Hall to Memorial Hall, proclaiming as they went: "I've got to hear Camille."

The concerto classes were also heard Thursday night with the under 17 division undefeated, the under 19 taken by Mary Chard with 90 and the open by Cheryl Borris, also with 90.

FEW CROWDING

The last few vocal classes, which included such as opera and oratorio competitions, were poorly patronized. George Roberts had the male oratorio and oratorio divisions all to himself. Only two ladies appeared in the female oratorio. There was one bass and one contralto in the competition.

The speech arts division which has been going since

Monday evening wound up with an Honor Performance Thursday evening at Sir James Douglas elementary school.

Feature here was the five-way contest for the Audrey Johnson Award for the competitor, 21 years or younger, who in the opinion of the adjudicator has reached a high standard and who shows promise in the speech arts.

Four young women and a young man were nominated to the final competition: Linda Syme, Susan Donald, Marie Stillman, Denise Wood and Blake Carter. The winner was Marie Stillman who compiled quite a successful record for herself over the past few days.

MORE INSPIRING

The Festival resumes with the schools division on Monday and runs through to May 4. Included in this division are strings classes and dance classes, the latter among the most lively and colorful performances in the whole Festival.

It may come as a surprise that cows, proverbially regarded as placid, serene and uneventful, should furnish greater rhetorical flourish than cows, whose temperaments are mercurial and whose lives are colorful and adventurous.

Yet, judging by the speech arts results of Thursday morning, this would appear to be the case.

Five school choirs, whose set recitations related to the ribberty-gibbet odis, achieved a high mark of just 85 and this went to Division 15, Grades 2 and 3, at Margaret Jenkins school.

But Grades 4 and 5 of St. Andrew's School, dealing with the subject of cows, scored a handsome 88 and St. Patrick's school were awarded 85 in the same contest and on the same subject.

"TAKE A BOW"

Nothing as sensational came forth from the speech arts afternoon session when marks ran from 79 to 85.

"Now stand up, face the audience and take a bow!"

At this behest of piano adjudicator Joseph Cooper, the quartet of Tyea Edgington, Renee Mansfield, Tina Marie Parsons and Kenneth Seaman solemnly accepted a wave of audience applause.

They had placed third — and, consequently, out of the money — in the under 12 class for two pianos, eight hands.

"But, after all," added Mr. Cooper, "you were only one mark behind!"

SOUND ADVICE

The one mark will likely soon be forgotten. But not Mr. Cooper's encouragement, advice and sympathetic attitude.

All week long he has given sound, academic advice. But these intellectual dishes have always been garnished and consequently, rendered much more palatable, with rare good humor and an infectious smile.

He has proved himself supremely adept at giving a lift and a laugh at the same time and it seems hard to imagine any of his contestants who has not both enjoyed and profited by his adjudications.

Helene Barker, another consistently successful performer, won the under 12 sonata class with a mark of 87 in the morning and Joan Lett, in the under 14 division, equalled this in the afternoon.

The very first competitor in the very first vocal class on Wednesday morning single-handedly wrecked the established belief that singing improves as the day wears on. Laura Groos scored the highest mark yet received by any vocal contestant this year when she was awarded 93 for her sacred solo.

Then, instead of going back to bed for a well-earned rest, Laura bounced right back and won another high voice class with 88.

Chief Protests Shack-Razing

FORT ST. JAMES (CP) — Chief Nicholas Prince of the Neacole Indian Band Thursday protested the razing of 15 Indian shacks on the outskirts of this northern British Columbia community.

The shacks, located on Roman Catholic church property, were bulldozed into heaps of lumber and burned Wednesday on orders from Rev. Gerald Holmes.

Chief Prince said the shack town was used by Stuart Tremblour and Takla Indian bands who squatted on the land after moving there from reserves 30 to 40 miles away.

TO WOODSHED

He said several families lost possessions in the razing and one family with three children was forced to move into a friend's woodshed after its home was destroyed.

The chief said five or six of the shacks were locked and contained stoves, washing machines, furniture and food belonging to families that were absent when the wrecking machines moved in.

Father Holmes said the squatters had decent homes on their reserves and only moved into town "to be near the beer parlor."

'WORST PEOPLE'

"These people were living in the worst possible squalor and deprivation and they were told as long as six years ago that they would have to move out."

Father Holmes said the destruction of the shack town, which he described as a breeding ground for disease, drinking and violence, was sanctioned by health authorities. One shack was left standing to temporarily house a family with several young children.

NOW! a stronger, more luxuriant lawn with PENN-HIGH LAWN GRASS MIXTURE

For a perfect lawn, you need two types of grass seed — one for fine texture, the other for weight and toughness. Penn-High Lawn Grass Mixture gives you both in a single package. It's a specially developed mixture of Penn-Lawn Fescue and Highland Bent — for lawns that look better and wear harder. Penn-High produces a luxuriant dark green grass — with extra heavy turf that gives a soft, cushiony feel. Penn-High makes longer, stronger grass roots, too, helping your lawn withstand excessive heat, cold and moisture. For a lovelier, healthier lawn that invites active family fun, look to Penn High Lawn Grass Mixture from Green Valley Chemical and Fertilizer Co. Ltd.

Also look to Green Valley for a complete range of plant foods and fertilizers.

By LOUIS NEVIN
LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mail Thursday launched a great Atlantic air race for the fastest time between the top of New York's Empire State Building and London's Post Office tower. Anyone can join in, but the contestants probably will spend more time on the traffic-jammed ground than in the air. The race starts next year to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first transatlantic flight from Newfoundland by two British officers, Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur Whitten Brown, June 15, 1919.

Prizes will total more than $100,000.

LOST TIME

One objective of the race, The Daily Mail says, is to point up the amount of time plane travellers lose in getting from city centre to airport and back.

That's why the course, to be run in either direction, will be run between the 86th floor observation platform of the Empire State Building and the Top of the Tower restaurant in London's Post Office tower, Britain's tallest building.

LONG HISTORY

The Daily Mail has a long history of sponsoring air tests of this kind, beginning in 1907 with a contest for plane models.

Alcock and Brown flew a Vickers Vimy Mark IV biplane bomber with two Rolls-Royce engines from Newfoundland to Ireland for a $10,000 then $50,000 Daily Mail prize.

The Daily Mail is offering two prizes of $12,000 each for the fastest time between the Empire State observation platform and the London Post Office tower or vice versa. The Mail does not specify the plane to be used.

The Irish airline Aer Lingus is offering a prize of $12,000 for the fastest time between London and New York via Shannon Airport using a regularly scheduled airline flight and British Overseas Airways Corp. a prize of the same amount for the trip in the opposite direction.

The Daily Sketch, another London newspaper, is offering two prizes of $6,000 for flights in each direction "by individuals in personal attempts not backed by any company, organization or government agency."

Tentative date for the competition is Sunday, May 4, 1969, through Sunday, May 11.

Vancouver Wounding Trial

Wife Awaited Snores Then Stabbed Husband

VANCOUVER (CP) — A sleep before stabbing him in the stomach with a peeling knife. Det. Robert Welsh was testifying at the trial of Louise Bekos, who pleaded not guilty to magistrate's court to a charge of causing bodily harm with intent to wound.

The woman's husband, James Bekos, 39, a pharmacist, told Magistrate Bernard Isman: "I bear no animosity." He was in hospital a month with a six-to-eight-inch deep stab wound.

Det. Welsh quoted Mrs. Bekos as saying: "I waited until he started snoring because I can't get near to him unless he's asleep. Then I put the knife in his stomach."

Bekos said he had been under business pressure and he and his wife had assaulted each other at different times. The trial continues May 3.

Satan's Angels Murder Trial

'Blood Was Everywhere'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old girl Thursday told the British Columbia Supreme Court she told her boyfriend to "get rid of fingerprints" after a Vancouver businessman was beaten to death with a club.

"I didn't want him to get caught," testified Donna McKay, who said she is the girlfriend of Robert David James, charged with murder in the Jan. 11 slaying of Sydney Alfred McDonald.

SKULL CAVED IN Wednesday she testified Mr. McDonald was beaten to death with a club in the headquarters of the Satan's Angels motorcycle club.

She said the accused "was standing up, hitting him on the side of the skull."

"The left side of his skull was caved in and there was blood gushing everywhere."

Under questioning by defence counsel H. A. D. Oliver, Miss McKay said she had been smoking marijuana the day of the slaying, that she had taken two second pills and that her memory about some things might not be as clear as it could be.

Later, under re-examination by the crown, she said that under certain conditions the pills made her memory better.

She also said James had never been a member of the club but belonged to another motorcycle club called the Devil's Escorts.

Region Water Supply at Sooke

Go-Ahead Given Dam

Preliminary work leading to a $1,500,000 reconstruction job on the Greater Victoria Water District dam at Sooke Lake was authorized by the board Thursday and will begin at once.

The present dam is about 15 feet high and holds about 7,000,000 gallons of water trapped in the lake, which is the district's principal supply.

The new dam, tenders for which will be called in about a year, will be 35 feet high and keep about 11,400,000 gallons in reserve.

In addition to the extensive engineering and soil-testing surveys which will be required, there will be the massive task of clearing the lake shores of timber and debris to allow for the new level, about 20 feet higher.

Chief Commissioner Ronald Upward told board members at Thursday's meeting that the timber which was not sold during the cleanup project would all have to be gathered and burned.

The reconstructed dam, he estimated, would conserve enough water for an area population of about 330,000. About the year 2001, the board of that time would have to start thinking about another dam.

DISTILLATION

However, he said, it was possible by that time the distillation of sea water would have reached such an advanced stage that it might be cheaper to supply the water district from the ocean.

At the moment, he added, distillation costs, were prohibitive — about 50 cents per 1,000 gallons.

At the end of the century, the commissioner observed, the district would probably be consuming an average of about 38,000,000 gallons a day. The present year-around average is about 14,000,000 gallons.

CASH RESERVE

Mr. Upward said that the district still had a cash reserve in bonds of about $2,500,000 — enough to finish the Sooke-Goldstream water tunnel, recently broken through, and to carry dam reconstruction costs at least until the end of 1970.

At that time, he said, it might be necessary to raise water rates.

The commissioner was authorized to begin the purchase of 4,400 feet of 48-inch concrete pipe to bring water from Sooke Lake to the upper portal of the tunnel. Eventually, he pointed out, there would be two 48-inch pipelines running from the lake to the tunnel.

Cost of the pipe will be about $60,000.

Well-Known Sailor Dies at 69

Well known Victoria sailor and sports fisherman Commodore V. S. Godfrey died Thursday at 69.

He suffered a heart attack while at Lake Cowichan and was taken by ambulance to Duncan. He was transferred to Victoria and died in St. Joseph's Hospital's emergency ward at 5 p.m.

CADET IN 1913

Commodore Godfrey was born in London, England. He came to Canada as a child and was attending Ashbury College, Ottawa, when his application for entry as a cadet at the Royal Naval College of Canada, Halifax, was accepted in January, 1913.

He served during the First World War in surface ships and submarines of the Royal Navy. In December, 1941, Commodore Godfrey was appointed to command the auxiliary cruiser HMCS Prince David, in both the Pacific and Atlantic.

Later he commanded the infantry landing ship HMCS Prince Henry which helped carry the first wave of Canadian troops to France on D-Day.

He was civil defence co-ordinator in Victoria for five years after retiring in 1957.

That Word Out For New Wine Press

By PATRICK O'NEILL

The Wine Press has been reborn.

And, believe it or not, THAT word isn't in it. Neither are any of those other words that got the radical youth paper into boiling water during its publishing days last summer.

The new issue, first since September, even carries a column by an old foe of the paper, broadcaster Ralph Pashley.

But the new look hasn't wiped out controversy.

The first word of the first editorial statement in the paper is Revolution! Followed by the sentence, "This society is sick."

After a machinegun examination of what editors Ron Martin and Nick Bristowe think is wrong with society, the paper offers these solutions: "Stop the killing; peace; no more war, in any way, against anyone; basic social change."

NEW INTEREST

Youth council organizer Charles Barber, a contributor to the paper, said the Wine Press "just seemed to die" in September.

He said the coming of summer brought new interest, and tonight at a Bastion Square happening, young people will be out in force peddling copies of the Wine Press.

Mr. Barber explained why the nasty words were eliminated: "This edition will be controversial, because it raises certain issues. We will not allow people to diffuse the issues by engaging in meaningless prattle about swear words and how naughty they are.

"We want them to deal with the issues without complications."

Another enemy of the Wine Press and its radical stand is lampooned at least twice in the new issue.

First there is the "Pull-a-Bared Contest," where the contestants must undertake "an act of oppression."

The winner "will spend a week taking over Alderman Bared's assumed role as God, during which he may use his powers in any way he sees fit."

PRIME TARGET

Victoria Ald. Robert Baird has attacked the Youth Council for its activities in the past, and has become a target of the Wine Press.

Most of the contributions are tongue-in-cheek.

One exception is Charles Barber's assertion that public schools must be improved, and his proposal that students band together in unions, or join with teachers in joint unions.

FREE PRESS

Other suggestions: A free press in the schools, and "talk an awful lot."

Another serious contribution is a brief column by Mr. Pashley, in which he says the early editions of the Wine Press "were in my opinion in bad taste and were not suited for any consumption, not even the editors'." The column is entitled Pashley's Pulp.

Access Soon Problem

Raising the water level of Sooke Lake 20 feet by building a new dam poses one problem — it means the new way to Leechtown will be by boat.

Chief water commissioner Ronald Upward said Thursday night there were three solutions to road access to Leechtown.

Most desirable would be to utilize the present CNR right-of-way.

"We want to find out if they are going to stay in business here. As far as we can see there is practically no traffic. A couple of carloads of freight go up, and a couple come down each week."

"The tracks are just sitting there with the grass growing around them. We place it in the category of an abandoned railway," Mr. Upward said.

Mr. Upward hastened to add that no attempt was being made to put the CNR out of business.

Another alternative would be to raise the level of the existing road 10 feet at a cost of approximately $100,000 which would be a costly proposition if after the road was built the CNR decided to go out of business, and abandon its excellent existing right-of-way.

Third solution would be to have the government gazette an existing private road up Sooke River.

FIGHT BACK WITH ORTHO!

the new systemic insecticide that fertilizes!

Trust ORTHO to come up with this one. All you do is work in ORTHO SYSTEMIC ROSE AND FLOWER CARE pellets around your plants and they get fed and protected from sucking insects at the same time.

Sprinkle pellets, work into base of plant. Water in. Roots soak up insecticide and fertilizer, carry them into sap stream to feed and protect.

Best thing about this, of course, is that both insecticide and fertilizer are systemic, work within the roses and other flowers, from roots up. Rain or sprinkling can't wash it away. So buds get big and beautiful. And sucking insects (aphids, mites and others) that come to feed, die. Economical, too. You get full fertilization and protection from insects for four weeks or more for pennies a plant.

Introducing Entrance Floor Polish

Quite modestly, it's the best, clear, self-polishing, detergent-resistant floor wax — bar none!

How do we know? It took 2 million steps to prove it. People stepped on it in high heels, low heels, brogues and workboots... still Entrance kept its shine, resisted scuffing and marking. We tested Entrance Floor Polish commercially for one year before offering it to you. We proved it on office floors, lobbies and entrances to hardheaded businessmen. It was a tough test but Entrance came through looking great. One coat will give a higher gloss to your floor than any other wax and for better protection you can apply additional coats immediately. Entrance costs a little more than ordinary floor polishes but you'll use less of it, less often.

Next time you buy floor wax, make it Entrance. It's a better floor polish than any you've used before... bar none!

So, make your first step onto Entrance.

DUNCAN — The joint recreation commissions of Duncan and North Cowichan want sketch plans containing costs for the proposed development of Pioneer Park.

Commissioner Pat Rogers of Duncan said to sell the scheme, people must be shown something concrete.

He referred to the $800,000 swimming pool-community centre which would be built if a bylaw at the end of September is approved by taxpayers.

Mr. Rogers maintained by asking the councils to obtain the sketch plans, councils will definitely have to show whether or not they are in favor of the scheme.

Ald. Dennis Hogan of North Cowichan said "Our council is very enthusiastic now."

"It wants to see the development go ahead quickly."

"As far as we are concerned, it looks very encouraging, and the mill rate probably will be less than what we anticipated. "We have to move before the next increase of prices."

Commissioner Erica Cooper from the unorganized South Cowichan area said people show great interest in the proposed development.

But Mill Bay residents were quite upset that no skating arena would be built, because the Fuller's Lake Arena near Chemainus is too far away.

Chairman Mel Massey of Duncan said it would be advisable to wait a few years and see how the Fuller's Lake Arena will work out.

Trudy Westermann, South Cowichan, said she will write another letter to the regional

Sweet Pea Procedure

Preparing the Site

By M. V. CHESNUT

Let's see now — where were we Thursday in that business of starting your Colonist free seeds of the Zvolanek sweet peas?

We disinfected the seeds first, either by shaking them up with a proper seed dressing or by dunking them in Lysol or similar household disinfectant; this was to rid them of any seed-borne plant disease or rot organism. Then we set them to sprout in a covered dish of damp peat moss.

The covered container — I use an old Pyrex casserole — is kept in a warm, cosy place to induce the rapid "hatching" of hardcoated seeds.

Please understand we are NOT going to grow the sweet pea seeds indoors, as we do with, say, tomato plants. Sweet peas are hardy plants, and even though there is always the possibility of ground frosts in late spring, our seedlings will come to no harm if grown outdoors from the start.

What we are doing here is merely sprouting the seeds before sowing them, so they will start growing as soon as they go into the ground. This is a process known as "chitting" the seed in England and as "vernalizing" among the plant scientists. The Russians are growing extra-early wheat crops in this way, and English gardeners often pre-sprout the seeds of slow-germinating things like carrots.

While our sweet pea seeds are hatching in their incubator, we'd better get the outdoor planting site ready. Ideally, this should have been prepared in the fall, but one thing you soon learn in gardening is that a lot of the rules in the book can be broken and the plants still grow.

At one time it was considered necessary to dig a trench almost deep enough to bury a horse before planting sweet peas. The excavation was filled with all kinds of assorted goodies for the roots — chopped sod, rotted manure, bone meal, dried blood, wood ashes — all arranged neatly in layers, rather like a Dagwood sandwich.

The old-time gardeners had a theory that sweet pea roots could be coaxed deeply into the ground by arranging their favorite foods in layers in this way, like hanging a carrot in front of a donkey's nose. We know now that plant roots are never "attracted" by anything — they move blindly, merely pausing to exploit any nutrients they encounter by chance.

It has been my experience that a deep trench for sweet peas does more harm than good — in our part of the country anyway. The trench acts as a drainage sump for all the surface water, and the roots find themselves in a sea of goopy mud. I have run across many cases of root-rot in sweet peas caused by soggy soil and not enough air in the zone of the lower roots.

I prepare my sweet pea site by digging it over, not deeply, but to the full depth of my spade. I make the site wider than the old-time sweet pea trench — about 30 inches wide, or 15 inches on each side of the seeded row — in order to encourage the lateral spread of the active feeding roots. The site gets a generous dressing of old rotted manure, about a bucketful per square yard, and this is dug in and mixed intimately with the soil rather than left in layers.

If you have no manure, a pretty good substitute is peat moss, Blue Whale or fir bark, plus a sprinkle of garden fertilizer.

With the soil dug over and enriched, rake over and level the plot, then give it a surface dressing of garden lime, two cupfuls per square yard, and scratch it shallowly into the soil with the rake. Tread the plot now to firm the soil, then give it a final raking.

Now you are all set to make your seed furrow, about an inch deep. Sow your sprouted seeds six inches apart, and put up some supports for the vines.

JACK SMITH Regains His Identity

The Beard That Failed

For one glorious week, or, inglorious, as you may see it, I had a beard. A beard is every man's birthright.

I was taking a week's vacation, and felt the need to do something creative. I can't just lie around loafing.

I had planned to shave it off Sunday, and emerge my true self once again. By Sunday, though, it was a fairly respectable beard. It no longer looked like something I had missed while shaving. I decided to wear it to church.

When we stood to sing I noticed several women in the congregation giving me covert glances. I assumed these signified a admiration. I couldn't remember attracting so much notice in church since I used to sing solo.

I had planned to shave the beard off Monday morning, but it had been such a success in church I decided to wear it to work, one day at least. I had to find out what the reaction would be.

It wasn't a full beard. It covered only the upper lip and chin. It looked very much like an Easter basket, the mustache being, of course, the handle of the basket.

The funny thing about it, though, was that the bottom whiskers, along the bottom of the chin, or basket, were quite white. The rest was only gray. Apparently I age from the chin up.

"You look 10 years older," one of the girls at the office told me. She was the first to comment.

"I always have been 10 years older," I explained. "You look like Dr. Pasteur," another young woman remarked later in the day.

"That's close," I admitted. "Actually, I rather hoped I looked more like Emile Zola." "No," she said. "His beard was fuller. You look like Pasteur."

Young women don't know their history very well these days, I'm afraid. It happens that I saw Paul Muni play both roles — Pasteur and Zola — and I looked much more like Zola. But I didn't say anything.

Later on I dropped into the office of a man of superior experience and wisdom. He could be expected to know what famous people looked like, at least, and to offer some sound advice.

"You look like Trotsky," he said.

"Trotsky!" I exclaimed. I had forgotten all about Trotsky. Anyway, I was pretty sure Paul Muni never played him.

"Outside of that," I said, "What do you think of it?"

"My advice," he said, "is either shave it off, or dye it."

It had never occurred to me that anyone would think of my beard as anything more than an innocent affectation, but there are people who can read significance into anything.

"What are you protesting?" one of my colleagues asked me.

"Protesting? Who's protesting?"

"The beard. What are you trying to prove?"

"I'm not trying to prove anything," I protested. "I'm just growing a beard, that's all. I want to find out who I look like."

He looked sceptical. "In your subconscious mind," he said, "you're probably rebelling against something. You don't even know it."

"Never mind that," I said. "Who do I look like?"

He studied me. "Hemingway," he said. "Only skinnier."

That evening I went home in a cloud of doubt.

"You know what Trotsky looks like?" I asked my wife. "Trotsky?" she said. "Isn't he dead?"

I went into the bathroom and looked at myself. In my heart, I felt like Zola. But I looked like Trotsky. There was no denying it.

I shaved it off. Trotsky's too controversial.

HOLLYWOOD (NANA — Stephen Boyd bounces from Brigitte Bardot in Shalako to Dionne Warwick in The Slave. It is singer Dionne's first dramatic screen role... I Caught Here We Go Round a Mulberry Bush and a year ago I might have been startled at the male and female nudity. This sort of thing is so ordinary now on the screen that I had no reaction at all to this part of the amusing movie.

Lewis Gilbert, of Allie and You Only Live Twice fame, will direct The Adventurers in Madrid, Paris, New York and the Andes in South America. Harold Robbins, if you remember, wrote the best seller... Mrs. Jackie Kennedy's actress sister Princess Radnawill — or Lee Bouvier — is not retiring from her career after all because of the mediocre reviews for her two acting efforts — The Philadelphia Story on stage in Chicago, and Laura on television. # Mean What You Say

SYDNEY

When you use various expressions, do you know that — — "To the nth degree" doesn't mean to the farthest, or largest, or indefinite number?

— "A shambles" is not just any kind of mess, but one that involves bloodiness?

— "A dilemma" is not a mere difficulty or problem, but a set of two choices, each of which is equally unsatisfactory?

— "To enhance" means to make or become larger, and thus it is absurd to write an ad about "a girdle that enhances your figure!"

— a French "gendarme" is not the equivalent of a London bobby or a New York cop, and indeed is not a Parisian policeman at all?

— a "blueprint" is not just a plan or scheme, but (in the engineering industries, which it comes from) it is the final stage of paper design.

— a "bottleneck" is something that impedes the flow because it is too small; thus, to speak of "a bigger bottleneck" is a contradiction in terms.

— a "casualty" is an accident, and not the person to whom it happens, even though the military prefer to ignore this fact?

— "the optimum" is not the best, or the fastest, or the most anything, but it is the product of conflicting forces; as the optimum speed of a car is not the fastest it can go, but its most satisfactory speed in traffic, which will result in the least gas consumption and the least wear and tear, and yet arriving as quickly as possible?

— "the protagonist" is not the opposite of the antagonist, with the one being for and the other being against; a protagonist is a leading character, who can be for, against, or indifferent.

— "begging the question" does not mean evading a straight answer; it is, rather, a precise term in logic, which means assuming the very proposition which is in need of proof?

— "a leading question" is not one framed to trap or embarrass the person questioned; instead, it is one designed to help him give the answer wanted by the questioner — which is why a lawyer cannot ask such a question of his own witness?

— "the devil's advocate" is not a tempter of the good, or a whitewasher of the bad, but a prosecutor who is assigned to find evidence against the canonization of a candidate for sainthood?

— "coming to fruition" does not mean becoming fruitful or maturing, but the enjoyment that comes from attainment or possession of a goal?

Proposal for New Federal Act

Three-Level Indian Help

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the British Columbia Indian Advisory Council said Thursday that the proposed new federal Indian Act should be drafted to deal with Indians on three levels.

They suggested at a press conference that one level of the act deal with Indians well advanced into the white society, one with those in transition and one with those in remote and backward areas.

Members, representing six major regions of B.C. and the Yukon, agreed that the greatest need of B.C. Indians is steady work — the only way in which slum conditions on reserves could be ended.

Guy Williams, president of the Native Brotherhood of B.C., accused employers of discriminating against Indians and said local Indians often find U.S. hiring practices more fair.

"One of my own sons had to go to California to find a job, even though there were openings here for which he was fully qualified. The U.S. may have its Negro problem but here there is an Indian problem."

Richard Malloway of Sardis, B.C., described most Indians as

"shy people." He said that if they are hurt or insulted by an employer or job agency "they just give up trying."

The federal Indian Affairs department has scheduled public hearings across Canada on revisions to the act. The first will be at Prince George, May 6-8.

Mr. Williams criticized the idea of holding hearings during the federal election campaign, saying there are "too many political hopefuls" who will promise anything.

"They'll promise the Indians the moon if they think it'll get them a few votes. This is apt to make the Indians' problems a political football."

Emergency Number Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — A proposal for a common emergency telephone number for Greater Vancouver has been turned down by city council because it is too expensive. The estimated annual operating cost of the plan was $247,000.

UBC Strike Settled

VANCOUVER (CP) — A four-day strike by 18 heating engineers at the University of British Columbia has ended. Under agreement terms, the university has agreed to meet union demands for salary increases for the first six months, and in return the union has agreed to extend the contract from the one year it demanded to 18 months.

Ball Surprise Choice As UN Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson disclosed Thursday the long-anticipated resignation of Arthur W. Goldberg as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and announced a surprise successor, George W. Ball, former undersecretary of state.

Goldberg, 59, a former labor lawyer who has held high federal posts since the first day of the John Kennedy administration, had made no secret recently of his desire to return to private life.

Advance speculation about a successor did not mention Ball, 58, who resigned as No. 2 man in the state department nearly two years ago to return to law practice.

When Ball left government in 1966, he was widely regarded as more "dovish" on Vietnam policy than State Secretary Dean Rusk.

The president, who said he accepted Ball's resignation, said he was surprised by his choice.

T-4 Too Taxing

KELOWNA (CP) — Officials of the national revenue department are pondering the case of Abraham Dubrett of nearby Winfield.

He doesn't read or write. He also didn't file a 1966 income tax return.

Dubrett was charged with failure to file a return and appeared in court Monday but entered no plea. He was remanded to May 6.

"I don't know about a return," Dubrett told the court. "I can't read or write. I never went to school."

"I think this man has a real problem," said prosecutor Kenneth Davis.

He said he would notify the revenue department about the matter "and perhaps they can interview him." Officials said Thursday the revenue department office in Penticton has been notified.

LONDON (Reuters) — The British race controversy accelerated Thursday with a revolt by immigration officials, further dock strikes and an opinion poll that indicated many whites favor discrimination against non-white immigrants.

Thirty-nine immigration men at Landers Heathrow Airport wrote a letter supporting Enoch Powell, the right-winger who was expelled from the opposition Conservative party's "shadow cabinet," where he was defence spokesman, for denouncing non-white immigration.

More support for Powell came from 1,000 London longshoremen who announced a 24-hour strike today and a march on Parliament.

TOP MINISTERS

Prime Minister Wilson called a meeting of top ministers to consider the immigration men's action. One of the officials was suspended.

Meanwhile a Gallup poll said 75 per cent of those polled favored tighter controls on immigration. Forty-seven per cent said it should not be a crime to discriminate against a non-white person for a job.

40 PER CENT

Only 40 per cent thought job discrimination should be outlawed. Even fewer, 34 per cent, thought discrimination in housing, education, jobs and certain financial fields. The bill received agreement in principle in the House of Commons Tuesday night.

LARGE EXTENT

The whole affair has to a large extent turned British politics inside out. Longshoremen, frequently labelled Communist dupes because of their readiness for wildcat strikes, have marched on the House of Commons following enthusiastic

Logexpo Official Convicted

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Prefontaine, former supervisor of bookings for Logexpo, was sentenced Thursday to three years in penitentiary after being found guilty of conspiracy, accepting kickbacks and breach of trust while working for the Expo 67 accommodation agency.

Prefontaine, in his 50s, was sentenced to one year on the conspiracy charge, one year for accepting kickbacks and three for breach of trust, all sentences to be served concurrently.

Judge Jacques Anctil of Sessions Court said the accused had shown complete disregard for the public interest.

Prefontaine resigned his post before Expo opened in April, 1967.

During his trial Prefontaine admitted offering reservations to several motel operators for a price several weeks before quitting his job with the world's fair housing organization.

Skillings Joins Socred Cabinet

Byelections Piling Up

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett shuffled his cabinet Thursday, bringing in one new minister, and announced that further changes would take place following a mini-general election later this summer.

The newcomer to cabinet ranks is Waldo Skillings, 61, MLA for Victoria, who was made minister of trade, commerce and industry.

Wesley Black, 57, a cabinet veteran who held the two portfolios of health and provincial secretary, becomes the new minister of highways while retaining the post of provincial secretary.

Ralph Loffmark, 47, who entered cabinet ranks in 1964 as trade minister, becomes the new minister of health and hospital insurance.

After the swearing-in by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, at Government House at 4:15 p.m., Mr. Bennett told an impromptu press conference there is the prospect of "four or five" more by-elections this year.

More June Votes?

"There is no provincial general election in sight," the premier told reporters. "But with the number of by-elections, there will be a miniature election this summer."

Asked whether this meant a series of June by-elections, he said: "I'm not saying anything about that."

Mr. Bennett declined to elaborate on the number and location of coming provincial by-elections. At present one is too far off to fill a vacancy in the two-seat riding of Vancouver South on May 21.

In addition, Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane resigned earlier this week to accept an appointment as a B.C. Supreme Court Justice, and Randolph Harding, NDP member for Revelstoke-

Slocan, said he would resign shortly to contest the federal seat in Kootenay West.

The premier said he expected some other members to resign their seats in the legislature to run federally.

The cabinet shuffle, expected since Mr. Bennett took over the highways portfolio on a temporary basis following the resignation of P. A. Gagliardi during the past session, disappointed those who had expected some new, young blood to be brought in. It also quashed speculation that one of the three women ministers without portfolio would be given a job as full minister.

Mr. Bennett told reporters the women ministers were doing "a wonderful job" and could to their work best on a roving commission.

Emotional Moment

The premier indicated that even when what he termed "final cabinet changes" were made this summer, the women would not be affected.

It was an emotional moment for the premier when his close personal friend and bridge partner, Mr. Skillings, was sworn in as minister. Mr. Bennett struggled to hold back his tears and after the ceremony warmly congratulated the member for Victoria, who was first elected in 1960 and has won three elections.

He called Mr. Skillings "a man of great experience" in the fields of municipal government, education and business, adding, "Perhaps because he is a close friend of mine he has been held back. Otherwise, he might have been in the cabinet before now."

Mr. Skillings, an insurance executive in private life, said later: "I want to say how pleased and thrilled I am to be appointed to this cabinet of Premier Bennett, and I'm particularly pleased to take the oath of office under General Pearkes, an old personal friend, as practically one of his last duties as lieutenant-governor."

"I fully realize my responsibilities as minister, and will try to the best of my ability to fill this cabinet office."

The ceremony was formal but not stiff. Mr. Pearkes exchanged banter with the ministers as they signed the record after taking the oath of office. To Mr. Black, who was

Bruch

Bruch Isolated By Socreds Over Patchup

Herbert Bruch, national president of the Social Credit Party, was isolated by his party Thursday in his contention that Socreds and Quebec Creditistes were about to patch up old differences.

Expressing surprise and disagreement with statements by the Esquimalt MLA were his vice-president, the former leader of the party and the four-man parliamentary caucus.

Orvis Kennedy, association vice-president said in Edmonton that he was surprised to learn of the proposed reunion between the two groups.

"No such union has been considered by the national council or, to my knowledge, by any of the provincial Social Credit leagues affiliated with the national association," he said.

STATEMENT REGRET

Howard Johnston, MP for Okanagan-Revelstoke in the last Parliament, and caucus president, said in Ottawa the Social Credit caucus regrets that Bruch's announcement came without consultation or agreement with the party's federal executive or caucus.

"Under these circumstances, the members of caucus wish to dissociate themselves from this announcement," said Johnston.

Former Socred national leader, Robert Thompson, said there had not been, as far as he was aware, any consultations with either Creditiste leader Real Caouette, or Bruch.

Thompson has accused Bruch of going behind the back of the caucus of western MPS in seeking an act which was unconstitutional.

STAND MAINTAINED

Acting leader A. B. Petterson commented that he had heard nothing from Caouette.

However, Bruch said in Victoria Thursday that he stands by his previous statements.

"I don't want to get into a fight with Mr. Thompson," Bruch said, "but I would say that I'm not dealing with the caucus but with the national council of the party. The caucus has been kept advised of our moves toward reconciliation."

SOCRED SLATE?

Referring to a report, quoting a Ralliement des creditistes spokesman, as saying it would run English-speaking candidates in Manitoba, New Brunswick and Ontario, Bruch said: "I have just received a communication from the party in Manitoba that states there will be a full slate of our candidates in that province and they will be Social Credit candidates."

Pope Invited For Parley On Poverty

OTTAWA (CP) — Pope Paul may come to Canada next month to attend the national conference on poverty sponsored by Christian churches in Canada. (See also Page 7.)

Most Rev. Alexander Carter, bishop of Sault Ste. Marie and president of the Canadian Catholic Conference, told a news conference Thursday that "feelers have been sent out" to have the pope come to Montreal for the May 26-29 meeting.

Students Form Own Union

HAMILTON (CP) — High school students here have formed a union they hope will give them a bigger voice in their education. About 130 students from nine city and area schools attended the first public meeting of the High School Union of Students for Hamilton (HUSH). A Grade 11 student said they hope to influence how their courses are taught.

Quake Scare

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI) — A rolling earthquake broke windows and knocked down plaster shortly before noon Thursday in Sonoma county. It measured 4.8 on the Richter scale—a "moderate" tremor.

Ends Session

Egypt Urged To Mobilize

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser called upon Egyptians Thursday to mobilize for decisive battle against Israel to erase and avenge the defeats of last summer.

He declared Egypt will not negotiate with Israel for a solution of the Middle East crisis as Israelis have been demanding. He said this would be tantamount to surrender to Israeli ambitions for an eventual empire stretching from the Euphrates to the Nile.

Nasser several times asserted that the United States has been giving Israel full support with armaments, funds and diplomatic backing within the United Nations.

He drew applause when he paid tribute to political and military assistance Egypt has received and is receiving from the Soviet Union.

Firm Plan Needed For Big Project

DUNCAN — The joint recreation commissions of Duncan and North Cowichan want sketch plans containing costs for the proposed development of Pioneer Park.

Commissioner Pat Rogers of Duncan said to sell the scheme, people must be shown something concrete.

He referred to the $800,000 swimming pool-community centre which would be built if a bylaw at the end of September is approved by taxpayers.

Mr. Rogers maintained by asking the councils to obtain the sketch plans, councils will definitely have to show whether or not they are in favor of the scheme.

Ald. Dennis Hogan of North Cowichan said "Our council is very enthusiastic now."

"It wants to see the development go ahead quickly."

"As far as we are concerned, it looks very encouraging, and the mill rate probably will be less than what we anticipated."

"We have to move before the next increase of prices."

Commissioner Erica Cooper from the unorganized South Cowichan area said people show great interest in the proposed development.

But Mill Bay residents were quite upset that no skating arena would be built, because the Fuller's Lake Arena near Chemainus is too far away.

Chairman Mel Massey of Duncan said it would be advisable to wait a few years and see how the Fuller's Lake Arena will work out.

Trudy Westermann, South Cowichan, said she will write another letter to the regional district board asking to make recreation a function.

Mr. Massey said "Keep up the pressure!"

"That is the type of thing they (regional board) are waiting for."

Baseball or Babysitting?

'Parents No Help'

LAKE COWICHAN — Village council has been told Little League is being used as a babysitting service.

Little League official Ted Forrest told the council he is having difficulty forming a work party to move the fence at Centennial ball park.

Alderman learned the fence will have to be moved back at least four feet, to make the field regulation size for tournaments.

Moving Job

Council had offered to dig the post holes, if the Little League committee would organize the moving of the fence.

Mr. Forrest said, "I do not think it is fair to ask the coaches and managers to move the fence. They are already donating several hours a week to work with the youngsters at games and practices."

"Some of the men coaching and managing the teams do not have sons on the teams. But they are volunteering their efforts to help other boys."

Playoffs

"We cannot get the parents to help at a work party. We have trouble even getting them out to games."

Mr. Forrest said there are 90 youngsters in Little League this year, and the mid-Island playoffs for Little League will be held at Lake Cowichan in July if the field is made regulation size.

"If the field remains as it is now, we will have to cancel the tournament," he said.

Mr. Forrest added he was calling a work party for Wednesday night to get the field in order for games, "but I do not think we can expect the coaches and managers to move the fence, too."

Brown

Aldermen agreed that when the council had offered to dig the post holes, it was expected the parents would form a work party to move the fence.

Ald. Archie Greenwell said, "The coaches and managers have enough to do as it is. This lack of interest from parents seems to come up every year."

Good Gates

Mr. Forrest said he was also aware of the situation.

"The gates to the park are good," he said, "but we need padlocks on them to keep the cars out. Last week there were three motorcycles down there using the field as a race track."

"They are not only racing round the outer edges of the field, but there are ridges through the centre, too."

Council agreed to flatten the field out with a roller, put a heavy gate on the entrance, repair the dugouts with plywood and obtain new bases.

Co-Operation

The third problem dealing with the ball park was outlined by Ald. Brown, who stated the softball league cannot get together with the hardball league in connection with the condition of the playing field.

He added, "There are five hardball teams vying for Sunday practices and this does not leave much room for softball on the schedule."

Ald. Brown suggested the Lake Cowichan school board be approached for permission to use the secondary school diamond for softball. He said school principal Oscar Palsoson was in agreement, but bleachers would have to be erected.

Budget

Ald. Greenwell said, "If the school board agrees I do not see why permanent bleachers cannot be erected. Of course it will have to depend on their budget."

The school board will be approached for use of the grounds, and to look into the possibility of temporary or permanent bleachers.

This will solve all the problems," said Ald. Brown.

Due to the increase in duties at the village office for clerk Bill Chappell, council accepted an application from Mrs. Jim Gordon of Lake Cowichan, as assistant clerk at the office.

Mrs. Gordon, chosen from 15 applications, was previously a part-time employee of the village office.

Pretty brick church, which has everything but congregation

A Church Is Waiting

Silent Building Swallowed Savings, Taxes, Inheritance

Story, Photos
By AGNES FLETT

DUNCAN — George Turner has spent his money and his years building a beautiful church, two miles north of here. "It's built to last 1,000 years," he says proudly.

The church lacks only one thing, normally found in houses of worship:

It has no congregation. It has never had a service.

Mr. Turner, now in his 70s, says he will be the first to preach in the church, and "people will hear the truth."

Until he does, the church will stand silent, waiting for a function.

There has been some vandalism at the church recently.

Handle Loss Stops Clock

The big iron handle that winds the clock has been stolen, so Mr. Turner cannot keep his big tower-clock going. He used to wind it every week.

He started construction on the church in 1957, on its site just off the Trans-Canada Highway. It was virtually completed by 1959.

There are still a few touches to be added, trim to the pews and floor covering.

But the church is ready now for service, if there was a congregation.

While most churches were packed over the Easter holiday, Mr. Turner's big red brick church remained empty.

Mr. Turner is a retired storekeeper who now lives on a pension. He had a life-long dream of building a church.

Twelve years ago, he received a $20,000 inheritance from England.

He began to build. Mr. Turner hired Italian bricklayers for the special

Turner

Over the years, donations have come in. Many residents of the Cowichan Valley have sent money, and have their names inscribed on pews.

Mr. Turner's church has an unusual altar arrangement, with seven candles and a Holy of Holies sanctuary, and a plaque with inscriptions.

The church will seat more than 200, if and when there is a service.

The carillon bells have gone a bit out of tune in the past 11 years. Mr. Turner often relaxes in the church by playing the bells, although he says they should only be played before a service.

No Exemption For Church

He ends every day by working in his church. This is his life. He has spent $2,000 in taxes on the church. He feels the building should be exempt, but North Cowichan does not agree, because it has never been officially dedicated.

Several young couples have asked if they can be married in the church, but Mr. Turner has refused.

He said his church will never be used for any denomination, but will remain undenominational.

Trustees Want Vote Watched

DUNCAN — The Cowichan School Board has requested the minister of labor to hold a government-supervised strike vote, if Local 606 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees authorized a strike of its membership.

Local 606 includes 18 full-time and 12 part-time clerical employees who work in the school board office, district staff office and offices at some schools in the district.

All members of Local 606 are female. In a statement the board said negotiation meetings have been held between the board and union representatives for a new collective agreement.

Agreement on wage scales was not reached, and a provincial conciliation officer was appointed.

The award to the part-time employees of 5.7 per cent was in agreement with the board's offer, but the proposed 15.25 per cent increase for full-time employees was rejected as "unrealistic."

"The board considered that it made a generous and realistic offer of 8.85 per cent to the conciliation board for the full-time employees."

Island representative of CUPE Tom Smith said although the proposed 13 and a half per cent award by the conciliation board was short of the objective, the employees voted acceptance.

School Ready for Its Day

You Can Tell the Whole Tooth by Night

NANAIMO — Island high schools are full of students about to graduate on non-academic programs.

Where will they go? What will they do?

The Vocational Training School at Nanaimo hopes it has the answers for many of these young people.

It will get a chance to show them, when it holds open house for Career Day May 4.

The day is set aside for students to visit and find for themselves what courses and training they can expect from the school.

Jack Brody, assistant principal, said "Possibly the best courses we offer are listed under upgrading basic training and skill development."

It is offered to students who may not have enough prerequisite education.

The courses upgrade education, and through aptitude tests indicate the areas in which they would function best.

From there, the courses tend to lead the student into that phase of training in which he would become a better part of the school and of society.

The school's 35 instructors last year trained 1,800 students in subjects like hair dressing, commerce, diamond drill, heavy duty mechanics, and logging operations.

With proper screening of students, the school has made invaluable contributions in training students submitted by social welfare and probation authorities, by changing social rejects into rehabilitated contributors to society.

Although the courses also include some which are conducted almost on a semester basis, the students develop an identification with the school, similar to that of university students.

The Career Day is not a display of what the students have done or are doing.

"The whole issue is what can we do for people coming out of school," said Mr. Brody.

According to the 1967 public school report, there are 3,000 non-academic pupils in Grade 11 and 12 on the Island.

"Now, what are these kids going to do?"

The school added one course for the past year, over the normal number, for dental assistants, held at night.

The school does not normally have night courses.

Asked if working adults could ever expect a night training course, Mr. Brody answered, "I don't see why it couldn't be done."

The minimum number to register is 10, and if we could get that many, I'm sure we could arrange something."

Referring to the dental assistants' course, he said "With the number who have registered in that, there is a possibility we might start a day course."

Hub City Kiwanis is sponsoring Career Day.

Kiwanis members, with students from the commercial courses, conduct tours of the school for the visitors.

All schools on the Island have been sent invitations.

Last year school bus loads of students came from all points, including a group from Fort Hardy.

Inquest Learns Details

Car Forced Driver to Leave Highway

COURTENAY — A coroner's jury sitting in Courtenay decided Mrs. Annie May McPherson, 63, died from injuries received in an accident on the Island Highway, March 31.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Victor A. McPherson.

Within a mile of their home, the car left the road entered a ditch, came back onto the paved surface, crossed the highway and entered the opposite ditch where it came to rest on its side.

Mrs. McPherson was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where she was found to be suffering from fractured ribs and pelvis, plus mild shock. On April 11 she died.

Dr. D. Miller told the inquest hearing that he had performed a post mortem, which showed the cause of death as a blood clot which came from the pelvis injury and travelled to the lung and heart.

In his testimony Mr. McPherson, who has been driving for 46 years, said that as he rounded a sharp curve in the Mud Bay area, a car came directly toward him with lights on high beam.

He estimated the car was over the double centre line.

He said he took evasive action, but road shoulders at the area were not sufficient for him to regain control of his car.

Constable Gerald Carlson in his testimony said the area is in a 60 mph zone and there is no slow sign in the northerly direction, although one is posted for southbound traffic. "It is a sharp curve in my estimation for a speed of 60 mph," he said.

The jury recommended that no blame be attached to the driver of the car, and said that the McPherson vehicle was forced off the road by an unknown car.

They recommended further that a 50 mph speed limit be posted in both directions from Rosewall Creek to Royston, that wider and more solid shoulders be made where needed and that spot checks be made of vehicles testing headlight adjustments.

Coroner Tom Menzies thanked the jury for bringing in what he termed as "a most sensible verdict."

All for Margaret and Mary

Lady Luck Needs a Bed

By JEAN MacGREGOR

LAKE COWICHAN — "I seem to have luck with plays involving beds," said Margaret Winter, of Youbou. She looks forward to a presentation of All For Mary this weekend.

The Lake Cowichan Drama Club is presenting the three-act farce tonight and Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the community centre.

Mrs. Winter, who is director of the play, has been directing performances for the past 20 years.

The highlight of her career took place in Trail, B.C., when she won the regional award in 1956 for the play The Four Poster, another production involving a bed.

However, this time she has added psychedelic pyjamas. The regional win in Trail included the taking of five out of the six major awards in the festival.

Mrs. Winter started her career in Calgary when she worked with the well-known Betty Mitchell and Workshop 14.

She has also directed several festival plays while working with Kinnaird Little Theatre, and during this time her casts took the best actor award twice, and the best actress award once, as well as taking several smaller awards.

Mrs. Winter's arrival in Youbou last September, with her husband Stan, was met with enthusiasm by members of the Lake Cowichan Drama Club.

The club, well-known and active for 20 years in the district, had been dormant for three years.

The primary reason for non-activity of the club was the lack of a director, and when Mrs. Winter agreed to accept the position, the club was re-activated with zeal.

Mrs. Winter said she is very happy with the past months of rehearsals.

"We have all been working very hard," she said, "and I think we will be taking a long rest when this is all over."

She added, "I can also say the members of the Lake Cowichan Drama Club are the most cooperative and most hardworking people I have ever worked with."

The club has also been asked to present the play for two other performances, and the members will travel to Salt Spring Island May 4, and to Combs, May 18.

The six members of the production cast are: Jayney French as Mary; Eva Wilson as Nannie; Brent Friday as Humpy; Paul Kleven as Clive; Alec Walker as Victor, and John Tidball as Alphonse.

One Day in Jail For Disturbance

NANAIMO — Allan Bruce Jennison, 20, 742 Commaught Street, was sentenced to one day in jail and placed on two years suspended sentence for causing a disturbance by shouting and swearing, and resisting arrest. He had earlier this week pleaded guilty to the charges which arose from arrests last Saturday.

LAKE COWICHAN — A resident of Lake Cowichan for the past 14 years, Frank Schuttbacher, died suddenly at work Wednesday, at the Crown Zellerbach Logging Operation, Nisnat Camp. Born in Austria, Mr. Schuttbacher was 52 years of age. A logger in Austria before coming to Canada, he came directly to Lake Cowichan in 1954. He was a member of the IWA. Service will be held at Hirst Funeral Chapel, Duncan, 1:30 p.m. Saturday followed by interment at Mountain View Cemetery, Sonoma.

PARKSVILLE — A varied collection of household goods, antiques, appliances and just about everything will go under the hammer Saturday at the Community Hall when Parksville Kinsmen hold their annual Community Auction commencing at 1 p.m. The auction will be preceded by a rummage sale at 10 a.m. sponsored by the Kinsmen.

Proceeds from these events will go towards community projects being undertaken by the Kinsmen. The largest of these is a pledge to spend $1,500 in the community park playground by providing rides, slides, climbing bars and other features for the kiddies. The Kinsmen are also building up a fund to finish the ceiling of the Community Hall and this was started with a $100 donation from Ray Young, a life member of the club.

COURTENAY — A substantial hike in the school mill rate in District 71 has been indicated following an announcement from Victoria setting out provincial education grants. The district received $1,624,843 in the grant. Last year the mill rate for school purposes was 22.35 and under the new grant formula is expected to be 35.73 or an increase of 3.38 mills. Courtenay city clerk a d m i n i s t r a t o r William Moore said the city's provisional budget has enough to cover the increase but suggested this would not help the taxpayer very much.

Introducing Entrance Floor Polish

Quite modestly, it's the best, clear, self-polishing, detergent-resistant floor wax—bar none!

How do we know? It took 2 million steps to prove it. People stepped on it in high heels, low heels, brogues and workboots... still Entrance kept its shine, resisted scuffing and marking. We tested Entrance Floor Polish commercially for one year before offering it to you. We proved it on office floors, lobbies and entrances to hardheaded businessmen. It was a tough test but Entrance came through looking great. One coat will give a higher gloss to your floor than any other wax and for better protection you can apply additional coats immediately. Entrance costs a little more than ordinary floor polishes but you'll use less of it, less often.

Next time you buy floor wax, make it Entrance. It's a better floor polish than any you've used before... bar none! So, make your first step onto Entrance.

FIGHT BACK! WITH ORTHO!

the new systemic insecticide that fertilizes!

Trust ORTHO to come up with this one. All you do is work in ORTHO SYSTEMIC ROSE AND FLOWER CARE pellets around your plants and they get fed and protected from sucking insects at the same time.

Sprinkle pellets, work into base of plant. Water in. Roots soak up insecticide and fertilizer. Carry them into sap stream to feed and protect.

Best thing about this, of course, is that both insecticide and fertilizer are systemic, work within the roses and other flowers, from roots up. Rain or sprinkling can't wash it away. So buds get big and beautiful. And sucking insects (aphids, mites and others) that come to feed, die. Economical, too. You get full fertilization and protection from insects for four weeks or more for pennies a plant.

Black—Highways; Loffmark—Health, Hospitals; Skillings—Trade, Industry More Cabinet Changes in Summer After B.C.'s Mini-Election, Says Bennett

PREMIER SHUFFLES HIS MINISTERS

After Government House swearing-in: Loffmark, Black and Skillings

Byelections Piling Up

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Premier Bennett shuffled his cabinet Thursday, bringing in one new minister, and announced that further changes would take place following a mini-general election later this summer.

The newcomer to cabinet ranks is Waldo Skillings, 61, MLA for Victoria, who was made minister of trade, commerce and industry.

Wesley Black, 57, a cabinet veteran who held the two portfolios of health and provincial secretary, becomes the new minister of highways while retaining the post of provincial secretary.

Ralph Loffmark, 47, who entered cabinet ranks in 1964 as trade minister, becomes the new minister of health and hospital insurance.

After the swearing-in by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes, at Government House at 4:15 p.m., Mr. Bennett told an impromptu press conference there is the prospect of "four or five" more byelections this year.

More June Votes?

"There is no provincial general election in sight," the premier told reporters. "But with the number of byelections, there will be a miniature election this summer."

Asked whether this meant a series of June byelections, he said: "I'm not saying anything about that."

Mr. Bennett declined to elaborate on the number and location of coming provincial byelections. At present one is to be held to fill a vacancy in the two-seat riding of Vancouver South on May 21.

In addition, Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane resigned earlier this week to accept an appointment as a B.C. Supreme Court Justice, and Randolph Harding, NDP member for Revelstoke.

Shoen, said he would resign shortly to contest the federal seat in Kootenay West.

The premier said he expected some other members to resign their seats in the legislature to run federally.

The cabinet shuffle, expected since Mr. Bennett took over the highways portfolio on a temporary basis following the resignation of Philip Gagliardi during the p.s.s. session, disappointing those who had expected some new, young blood to be brought in.

It also quashed speculation that one of the three women ministers without portfolio would be given a job as full minister.

Mr. Bennett told reporters the women ministers were doing "a wonderful job" and could to their work best on a roving commission.

Emotional Moment

The premier indicated that even when what he termed "final cabinet changes" were made this summer, the women would not be affected.

It was an emotional moment for the premier when his close personal friend and bridge partner, Mr. Skillings, was sworn in as minister. Mr. Bennett struggled to hold back his tears and after the ceremony warmly congratulated the member for Victoria, who was first elected in 1960 and has won three elections.

He called Mr. Skillings "a man of great experience" in the fields of municipal government, education and business, adding, "Perhaps because he is a close friend of mine he has been held back. Otherwise, he might have been in the cabinet before now."

Mr. Skillings, an insurance executive in private life, said later: "I want to say how pleased and thrilled I am to be appointed to this cabinet of Premier Bennett, and I'm particularly pleased to take the oath of office under General Pearkes, an old personal friend, as practically one of his last duties as lieutenant-governor."

"I fully realize my responsibilities as minister, and will try to the best of my ability to fill this cabinet office."

The ceremony was formal but not stiff, Mr. Pearkes exchanged banter with the ministers as they signed the record after taking the oath of office. To Mr. Black, who was

Bruch

Bruch Isolated By Socreds Over Patchup

Herbert Bruch, national president of the Social Credit Party, was isolated by his party Thursday in his contention that Socreds and Quebec Creditistes were about to patch up old differences.

Expressing surprise and disagreement with statements by the Esquimalt MLA were the vice-president, the former leader of the party and the four-man parliamentary caucus.

Orvis Kennedy, association vice-president said in Edmonton that he was surprised to learn of the proposed reunion between the two groups.

"No such union has been considered by the national council or, to my knowledge, by any of the provincial Social Credit leagues affiliated with the national association," he said.

STATEMENT REGRET

Howard Johnston, MP for Okanagan-Revelstoke in the last Parliament, and caucus president, said in Ottawa the Social Credit caucus regrets that Bruch's announcement came without consultation or agreement with the party's federal executive or caucus.

"Under these circumstances, the members of caucus wish to dissociate themselves from this announcement," said Johnston.

Former Socred national leader, Robert Thompson, said there had not been, as far as he was aware, any consultations with either Creditiste leader Real Caouette, or Bruch.

Thompson has accused Bruch of going behind the back of the caucus of western MPs in seeking an act which was unconstitutional.

STAND MAINTAINED

Acting leader A. B. Petterson commented that he had heard nothing from Caouette.

However, Bruch said in Victoria Thursday that he stands by his previous statements.

"I don't want to get into a fight with Mr. Thompson," Bruch said, "but I would say that I'm not dealing with the caucus but with the national council of the party. The caucus has been kept advised of our moves toward reconciliation."

SOCRED SLATE?

Referring to a report, quoting a Ralliment des creditistes spokesman, as saying it would run English-speaking candidates in Manitoba, New Brunswick and Ontario, Bruch said:

"I have just received communication from the party in Manitoba that states there will be a full slate of our candidates in that province and they will be Social Credit candidates."

Police Clubs Curb Sit-In

NEW YORK (AP)—A double file of plainclothes police pushed and clubbed their way into the east entrance of Columbia University's law library Friday morning in an attempt to end a three-day sit-in by militant student demonstrators.

The move followed an earlier announcement by acting dean Henry Coleman that university president Grayson Kirk had conferred with Mayor John Lindsay and asked for "police help."

Ball Surprise Choice As UN Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson disclosed Thursday the long-anticipated resignation of Arthur J. Goldberg as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and announced a surprise successor: George W. Ball, former undersecretary of state.

Goldberg, 59, a former labor lawyer who has held high federal posts since the first day of the John Kennedy administration, had made no secret recently of his desire to return to private life.

Advance speculation about a successor did not mention Ball, 58, who resigned as No. 2 man in the state department nearly two years ago to return to law practice.

When Ball left government in 1966, he was widely regarded as more "dovish" on Vietnam policy than State Secretary Dean Rusk.

The president, who said he ac-

LONDON (Reuters)—The British race controversy accelerated Thursday with a revolt by immigration officials, further dock strikes and an opinion poll that indicated many whites favor discrimination against non-white immigrants.

Thirty-nine immigration men at London's Heathrow Airport wrote a letter supporting Enoch Powell, the right-winger who was expelled from the opposition Conservative party's "shadow cabinet," where he was defence spokesman, for denouncing non-white immigration.

More support for Powell came from 1,000 London longshoremen who announced a 24-hour strike today and a march on Parliament.

TOP MINISTERS

Prime Minister Wilson called a meeting of top ministers to consider the immigration men's action. One of the officials was suspended.

Meanwhile a Gallup poll said 75 per cent of those polled favored tighter controls on immigration. Forty-seven per cent said it should not be a crime to discriminate against a non-white person for a job.

40 PER CENT

Only 40 per cent thought job discrimination should be outlawed. Even fewer, 34 per cent, thought discrimination in house selling should be made a crime. Forty-nine per cent said this should not be made an offence. The dispute centred on a bill by which the Labor government seeks to prohibit discrimination in housing, education, jobs and certain financial fields. The bill received agreement in principle in the House of Commons Tuesday night.

LARGE EXTENT

The whole affair has to a large extent turned British politics inside out. Longshoremen, frequently labelled Communist dupes because of their readiness for wildcat strikes, have marched on the House of Commons bellowing enthusiastic

Logexpo Official Convicted

MONTREAL (CP)—Raymond Prefontaine, former supervisor of bookings for Logexpo, was sentenced Thursday to three years in penitentiary after being found guilty of conspiracy, accepting kickbacks and breach of trust while working for the Expo 67 accommodation agency.

Prefontaine, in his 50s, was sentenced to one year on the conspiracy charge, one year for accepting kickbacks and three for breach of trust, all sentences to be served concurrently.

Judge Jacques Anctil of Sessions Court said the accused had shown complete disregard for the public interest.

Prefontaine resigned his post before Expo opened in April, 1967.

During his trial Prefontaine admitted offering reservations to several motel operators for a price several weeks before quitting his job with the world's fair housing organization.

Nasser

Egypt Urged To Mobilize

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser called upon Egyptians Thursday to mobilize for decisive battle against Israel to erase and avenge the defeats of last summer.

He declared Egypt will not negotiate with Israel for a solution of the Middle East crisis as Israelis have been demanding. He said this would be tantamount to surrender to Israeli ambitions for an eventual empire stretching from the Euphrates to the Nile.

Nasser several times asserted that the United States has been giving Israel full support with armaments, funds and diplomatic backing within the United Nations.

He drew applause when he paid tribute to political and military assistance Egypt has received and is receiving from the Soviet Union.

T-4 Too Taxing

KELOWNA (CP)—Officials of the national revenue department are pondering the case of Abraham Dubrett of nearby Winfield.

He doesn't read or write. He also didn't file a 1966 income tax return.

Dubrett was charged with failure to file a return and appeared in court Monday but entered no plea. He was remanded to May 6.

"I don't know about a return," Dubrett told the court. "I can't read or write. I never went to school."

"I think this man has a real problem," said prosecutor Kenneth Davis.

He said he would notify the revenue department about the matter "and perhaps they can interview him." Officials said Thursday the revenue department office in Penficon has been notified.
